Before Julienne Tuttu succeeded in killing her husband he had knocked her down, broken one of her arms and inflicted wounds from which she was bleeding freely.

IN progressive Chicago all limit on building height has been removed. No lid but the blue sky. And Chicago will proceed to show those old gentlemen around Babel's Tower how to do it.

MEN want to know how high up they really can go, and don't want busybodies fastening a ball and chain on their legs as they climb. This country, at least, should know enough to encourage everything new and big. Later, if we don't like what we have done, we can tear it down. We spend much time tearing down, a sure sign of progress.

CLARENCE and Demon Lowman and Bertha Lowman were convicted some time ago, of murdering a sheriff in South Carolina. The supreme court of the state granted a new trial. Yesterday South Carolina citizens broke into the jail, took the two accused men and the woman into a woods and shot them to death.

Leaving aside the question of brutality, on this particular occasion the mob lynched not only three negroes, one a woman, but also lynched a decision of its own supreme court, made up of white men. Not much of a tribute to that court!

JUDGE GARY, 80 years old yesterday, was at work late in the afternoon making up for time lost in greeting friends. Some "big banking interests," it is said would like another man already selected, in Judge Gary's place. Stockholders of United States Steel might like to be heard on that point.

JUDGE GARY took hold of the steel company when its stock, both common and preferred, was pure air and the bonds sold to the public were water. Andrew Carnegie, who sold the concern, wouldn't take those bonds as a gift.

The preferred stock closed last night at 127[illegible], the common stock at 166⅞. The company has $400,000,000 cash on hand, absolutely unlimited iron and coal reserves, here and abroad, and can sell steel at a profit, for less than any competitor can make it.

To any banker suggesting to Judge Gary that he retire under such conditions the judge would be justified in giving the modern American reply, "So is your old man."

IT is said the mother of the young woman engaged to marry the son of the rich banker, James A. Stillman, never learned to read or write. Lincoln's mother could not read or write, either, nor the mother of William the Conqueror.

Luckily for this world, a woman's child is created by her heart and mind combined, and by the minds and hearts of all the good women back of her. The quality of a child does not depend upon the mother's schooling. It depends upon her character.

Chilly Weather Greeting Crowds In Yank Stadium

BULLETIN

New York, Oct. 9—St. Louis Cardinals evened the count in the world series this afternoon by defeating the New York Yankees in the sixth game. The Cards and the Yanks have each won three games. The seventh and deciding game of the series will be played Sunday afternoon in the Yankee stadium.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 9—Greeted by a day that was as cold as a hound's nose, the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals resumed their trans-continental world series this afternoon with the sixth and what possibly will be the final game of the great autumn nuisance.

Another decision for the Yanks will give them the marbles by four victories to two; a verdict for the Cardinals will tie the business up like an artist's cravat and make a seventh game necessary tomorrow.

However, the chill winds were taken to mean that the Cardinals had run afoul of another uneven break for Grover Cleveland Alexander was due to pitch and elderly sinews usually do not react to any but genial climes. The Yankee pitcher, they said, was to be Bob Shawkey, no college freshman himself, but Robert carries the reputation of being a cold weather pitcher. And if you dont' think it was cold today, you can't possibly understand that Niagara Falls are saturated.

The thermometer in fact, hovered around and under 50 degrees, and most of the merry assemblage mushed in on dog sleds, yipping to the lead husky as

Play-by-Play

FIRST INNING

Cardinals—Holm singled to right. Holm forced out at second, Koenig to Lazzeri, but Southworth beat the latter's throw at first. Hornsby walked. Southworth scored and Hornsby went to third on Bottomley's double down the left field line. Hornsby and Bottomley scored on Bell's single to left. A conference between Dineen and Klem. They visited hawkey in the pitcher's box for some reason not altogether clear. Shawkey then resumed pitching. Hafey fanned. O'Farrell fanned.

Three runs, three hits, no errors, one left.

Yankees—Combs out, Alexander to Thevenow to Bottomley. The pitcher deflected the drive to Thevenow. Koenig struck out. Ruth out, Bottomley unassisted.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Alexander received a great cheer as he came to the St. Louis bench.

SECOND INNING

Cardinals—Thevenow out on a fly to Combs. He hit the first ball pitched. Alexander out on a long fly to Meusel. Holm out on a foul to Severeid.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees—Meusel doubled to left. It was another one of those high flies that was lost in the wind between Thevenow and Hafey. Neither man got his hands on the ball. Gehrig out, Thevenow to Bottomley. Meusel was held at second. Lazzeri out, on a great play, Thevenow to Bottomley, Meusel taking third. Thevenow raced far to his left for a glittering stop. Dugan out, Bell to Bottomley. They were hitting the first ball pitched.

THIRD INNING

Cardinals—Southworth out on a liner to Combs. Combs juggled the ball momentarily but retained it with a second grab. Hornsby out, Koenig to Gehrig. He hit the first ball pitched. Bottomley out on a pop fly to Gehrig. He also hit the first ball.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees—Severeid singled to center. Shawkey safe at first and Severeid safe at second on Thevenow's error. It was an easy grounder that Thevenow allowed to go through his legs with a double play in sight. Severeid out at third, Alexander to Bell, on Combs' rap to the pitcher's box. Shawkey went to second and Combs on first. Koenig out on a fly to Southworth. Both runners were held on their bags. Ruth out, Bottomley unassisted. The first baseman made a fine stop of Ruth's sizzling drive.

No runs, one hit, one error, two left.

FOURTH INNING

Cardinals—Bell walked. Bell went to second on Hafey's sacrifice out, Shawkey to Gehrig. Bell out stealing third, Severeid to Dugan. O'Farrell out on a long fly to Meusel.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees—Meusel tripled to left. The ball was hit down the left field line, bounded off the fence and out by Hafey. Meusel scored on Gehrig's infield out, Hornsby to Bottomley. Lazzeri out, Thevenow to Bottomley. Alexander threw one ball out of the game and asked for another. Dugan singled to center. Severeid fanned.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

FIFTH INNING

Cardinals—Thevenow singled to left. Thevenow went to second on Alexander's sacrifice out. Gehrig unassisted. Thevenow scored on Holm's single to center. Holm went to second on Southworth's infield out, Dugan to Gehrig. They were hitting the first ball pitched again. Hornsby out on a fine play, Lazzeri to Gehrig. The second baseman went well out on the grass in right field to make the stop.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

Yankees—Shawkey fanned. Combs out on a fly to Hafey. Koenig out on a short fly to Holm. Alexander only pitched eight balls during this inning.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SIXTH INNING

Cardinals — Bottomley doubled to right center. It was a hard drive that fell between Ruth and Combs and bounded off the right field barrier. Bell fanned. Hafey also fanned. O'Farrell out on a foul to Dugan.

Yankees—Ruth walked. Meusel out on a fly to Holm. He hit the first ball pitched. Gehrig fanned. Ruth stole second on the play. Lazzeri out on a fly to Holm.

SEVENTH INNING

Cardinals—Thevenow singled to left. Alexander safe at first and Thevenow went to second when Lazzeri dropped Severeid's throw of Alexander's attempted sacrifice. Lazzeri covered first on the play. Alexander got a sacrifice and Severeid an assist on the play. Thevenow out at third, Severeid to Dugan, on Holm's attempted sacrifice bunt. Alexander went to second and Holm first on the play. Alexander scored and Holm went to third on Southworth's double to left. Meusel first misjudged the ball and then lost it in the sun and the ball rolled by him going to the bleachers. There is another argument on the field. Shawkey was removed from the box at this moment and Shocker replaced him. Holm and Southworth scored on Hornsby's single to center.

Hornsby out at second, Koenig unassisted on Bottomley's infield rap. Bell hits home run scoring Bottomley. When Bell socked a high fast ball deep into the left field bleachers. The crowd was completely cured by this time. Hafey doubled to left, taking the extra base on Meusel's slow fielding. O'Farrell fanned.

Yankees—Bell's homer equalled the world's series record for driving in runs in one game. Dugan safe at first on a single through Bell. Dugan went to third when Severeid was safe at first on Bell's high throw. Paschal batting for Shocker. Adams running for Severeid. Paschal fanned. Dugan scored on Combs' single to center. Adams stopped at second. The hit was a hard liner that bounded away off Thevenow's glove. Adams went to third and Combs to second on Koenig's out, Bottomley unassisted. Ruth out, Thevenow to Bottomley.

One run, two hits, one error, two left.

EIGHTH INNING

Cardinals—Thomas now pitching and Collins catching for the Yankees. Thevenow went to first when he was hit by a pitched ball. Thevenow out at second, Thomas ot Koenig on Alexander's attempted sacrifice. Alexander reached first on the play. Holm out, Gehrig unassisted, and Alexander was out, Gehrig to Koenig at second, completing a double play.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees—Meusel walked. Meusel took second when Gehrig beat out an infield hit over first base. Hornsby made a great one-handed stop, but Gehrig beat the throw. Lazzeri out on a fly to Hafey. The runners held their bases. Dugan out and Meusel doubled off second on Southworth's great catch and throw of Dugan's short fly. The right fielder came in to make a beautiful catch and arising to his feet, whipped the ball to Thevenow and doubled Meusel off second base.

NINTH INNING

Cardials—Southworth tripled to center, the ball taking a bound away from Combs. Southworth scored on Hornsby's out, Thomas to Dugan to Gehrig. It was a hard drive that bounded off the pitcher into Dugan's hand. Bottomley out, Gehrig unassisted, hitting the first ball pitched. Bell singled to right and was out at second, Ruth to Lazzeri. Bell tried to stretch the hit.

One run, two hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees—Collins fanned. Reuther batting for Thomas, out, Hornsby to Bottomley. Combs doubled to right center on the first ball pitched. Koenig out on a long fly to Holm.

NATION AWAITS JURY VERDICT ON DAUGHERTY

Deliberations Are Resumed on Conspiracy Charges by Body Today

New York, Oct. 9—A half hour sooner than scheduled, the jury room door swung closed today on the fate of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, charged with conspiracy in connection with the return of the $7,000,000 war seized assets of the American Metals Co.

The jury returned to its deliberations at 10 o'clock this morning. They were not due to reconvene until 10:30 a. m.

In the jury chamber was a mass of exhibits requested by the talesmen last night before they adjourned from a two-hour consideration of the case. These exhibits included the principal papers filed by Richard Merton, German financier representing the claimant, the Swiss Society; the letter approving the claim in 1921 signed by Guy D. Goff, formerly first assistant to the attorney general, now senator from West Virginia; the rejected claim of Edward

MRS. AL JOLSON EXPECTS TO GET DIVORCE DECREE

Paris, Oct. 9—Final decree of divorce is expected to be granted Mrs. Al Jolson, the former Alma Osborn, and wife of the famous black-face comedian, within a few days, it was learned today.

Mrs. Jolson filed her demand two months ago, but it has not yet been acted on because of the August and September court vacation.

$15,000,000 Probably Will Change Hands on Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—In the estimation of Broadway betting commissioners, upward of a million dollars may be wagered on the sixth game of the world series this afternoon between the New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals with the probability that $15,000,000 will change hands on the result of the series, if it goes the limit of seven games.

A new record for total betting on this series seemed inevitable.

The odds established this morning for the sixth game were 2 to [illegible] and take your choice, with the Yankees favored for the series at slightly more than 2 to 1.

POMERENE SAYS HE SEEKS SEAT ON OWN MERITS

Senatorial Candidate Decries Attitude of Willis on Federal Reserve Act

An audience of about 1,000 people from Marion and nearby communities attended the Democratic rally in the Marion Star auditorium, the opening event of the fall campaign in Marion County, Friday night, and heard former United States Senator Atlee Pomerene discuss the outstanding issues now before the people of Ohio, especially questions involved in the senatorial contest between Mr. Pomerene and Frank B. Willis.

In his 45-minute address, Mr. Pomerene laid particular stress upon the contention that voters should decide between him and Senator Willis solely upon their merits and not be swayed by any other issue or influence.

Other speakers were Hector S. Young, head of the Democratic organization in Marion County, who opened the meeting as temporary chairman, Congressman Brooks Fletcher of Marion, who served as permanent chairman, Charles B. Zimmerman of Springfield, Democratic nominee for attorney general, John Zimmerman, his father, a veteran lawyer and Ohio Democratic leader, and Mrs. Maude Murray Miller, prominent Democratic club woman and newspaper writer of Columbus.

Elected on Merit

"I want to be elected on my merit or defeated for lack of it," Mr. Pomerene asserted. "If I were Frank B. Willis I would want to be elected for what I had done as United States senator or defeated for what I failed to do. I wouldn't want to hide myself under the coat-tails of the president of the United States."

This statement was in reference to the declaration made by Senator Willis in his speech at the Republican state campaign opening in Newark a few days ago in which he said that the "great issue before the people of Ohio this fall is approval or disapproval of the Coolidge administration."

"I was very much surprised to read these words of Mr. Willis in newspaper reports of his speech," Mr. Pomerene said. "I did not know that this was a presidential election. I thought the people were being called upon this year to decide the United States senatorship."

Explain Votes

"I want my Republican friends to know—and judging from reports I will get more Republican votes that Mr. Willis—that I shall not regard their votes for me as expressions of disapproval of Coolidge and neither will I so regard the votes of Democrats. I will

RESOLUTION IS GIVEN APPROVAL BY CONVENTION

Federation Officials Instructed To Put Plan Into Effect Generally

GRADUAL APPROACH

Original Resolution Amended SoThat Actual 40-Hour Week Is Not Designated

Detroit, Oct. 9—The American Federation of Labor today went on record in favor of the five-day, 40-hour week.

The convention adopted a resolution approved by the shorter work committee instructing the federation officials to work to put it into effec in industry generally.

The resolution calls for "a progressive shortening of the hours of labor and the days per week," without specifically designating the five-day, 40-hour limits.

The resolution as originally proposed specified the five-day, 40-hour week, but was amended in committee, it being explained that the goal must be approached gradually because of conditions prevailing in varied industries.

TEX RICKARD MARRIED IN LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Miss Maxine Hodges of New York His Bride, Officiating Minister Reveals

Lewisburg, W. Va., Oct. 9—"Tex" Rickard, millionaire sports promoter, and Miss Maxine Hodges of New York were married here at noon Thursday by Rev. Mr. Courtney, pastor of the Old Stone Presbyterian Church, the minister disclosed today.

The ceremony was performed in Reverend Courtney's home.

"I'm certain he was the famous sports promoter," Reverend Courtney said, "but I don't know where they went from here or anything about the romance. They said they came here from White Sulphur Springs."

WEATHER OUTLOOK RAINY AND COOLER

Moderate Temperatures Due Early Part of Week; Colder for Latter Half

Chicago, Oct. 9—Weather outlook for the period of Oct. 11 to 16:

Region of the Great Lakes—Occasional showers, but most likely in first and middle portions of the week; temperature above normal first days of week, followed by cooler about Wednesday or Thursday.

Ohio Valley—A period of rains during the first half of the week and again at the end of the week; moderate temperatures the early part of the week, with considerably colder the latter half, probably accompanied by dangerous frosts.

AUTO TRUSTEES DISCUSS 1927 LICENSE TAGS

Members of Club to Be Given Independent Service This Year

Issuance of motor vehicle license for 1927 was discussed at the semi-monthly meeting of trustees of the Marion Auto Club at Harding Hotel Friday. The discussion was led by President George Wyvrall, who made a motion that members of the club be given independent service this year. The motion carried unanimously.

Traffic sign service discussion was opened by Vice President Dr. D. W. Brickley and ended with round table comment on the operation of electric "stop and go" signs in the city's limits.

Signs in the City of Marion have been giving very satisfactory service, according to reports and due to the fact that they have helped considerably in decreasing the number of traffic accidents it is urged that they be kept in repair, trustees claim.

Club Service

Club service was the subject discussed by Secretary Mac D. V. Gallagher who reported that the club of ficers are receiving 100 or more inquiries daily.

Efforts are being made to secure the club's service if that is possible," reported secretary Gallagher.

"We are planning to give much better service this year with service conscious" concluded Secretary Gallagher.

Same Series

Marion County's series of numbers on motor vehicle license plates will again be from 97,601 to 97,000 inclusive. Many club members and other local motorists are making reservations at once ready for duplications of their former numbers.

Plans are being made for the club's annual election of officers and meeting. Details have not been announced.

Trustees will hold their next luncheon meeting, Oct. 23, at Harding Hotel.

WORKER RUSHING HOME TO SEE NEW BABE SLAIN

Brother-in-Law Also Shot a Week Ago; Motive Is Lacking

Lorain, Oct. 9—Joseph Barbatano 33, foreman of the National Tube Co. plant here, was shot and instantly killed from ambush here today as he was rushing home to welcome his first born child.

As Barbatano was within 100 yards of his yard, four shots were fired, two of them piercing his head. A woman's footprints were found behind the brush from which the fusillade had been fired. There were no witnesses.

A woman neighbor declared she had heard the shots and a female voice emanate from behind the brush saying "Oh ——mother."

A pistol had been used.

John Jazzlano, brother of Barbatano's wife, is recovering in a hospital from the effects of a shotgun charge fired at him from ambush last Sunday. He declared he had no knowledge of an enemy or that his brother-in-law had any.

Mrs. Barbatano and her new born baby are in excellent condition but she has not been notified of the tragedy.

CHINESE CHEATS SQUAD

Shanghai, Oct. 9—Shot five times with 45-calibre bullets, Tso Chu, a Chinese bartender, leaped a bar, but was knocked unconscious with the barrel of the revolver. He was taken to the hospital, recovered enough to attend court and be sentenced to die by the firing squad on a murder charge. He cheated his executioners by dying in a hospital.

GO TO GAME BY DIRIGIBLE

Newport, R. I., Oct. 9—The football team of the naval training station at Lakehurst, N. J., has set a precedent on the manner in which it traveled for a game with local training station eleven. The Lakehurst team came to Newport aboard the dirigible, Los Angeles.

SPRINKLING IS RESTRICTED

WOMAN AUTHOR RELEASED WHEN BILLS ARE PAID

Mrs. Elizabeth Murray, Listed in "Who's Who," Settles; Returns to Columbus

Mrs. Elizabeth Murray, author, world traveler and editor, brought here from Columbus Friday, to face the charge of passing worthless checks totaling $170 for payment of her bills at Hotel Harding in September, was released by local police late Friday afternoon when funds to take up the checks were forwarded by her mother, Mrs. Maud Ward of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Murray returned at once to Columbus, where Joseph D. Cleary, detective in the service of the protective department of the Ohio Hotels Association, announced that no further prosecution of other check passing complaints reported filed against her is planned in Ohio. Friday's press reports stated that approximately $1,000 in checks cashed at hotels in several cities had been returned for lack of funds.

Writes Explanation

Following her return to Columbus, Mrs. Murray's only statement was the following, written with pencil and handed to newspapermen:

"This unfortunate occurrence is due to the failure of persons who owed me money to make deposits in my banks. It will all be cleared up in a few days. There is no truth in the story of any attempt to get funds from Dr. Harding."

According to statements of officers who arrested Mrs. Murray in Columbus, Thursday afternoon on a warrant sworn out here by Charles T. Gausey, manager of Hotel Harding, the purpose of her two visits to Marion during September was to sell Dr. G. T. Harding, father of the late president, a life membership in the Woman's Historical Foundation, International, Inc., of which she claimed to be president. It was stated that she sought $1,000 for the membership and an additional contribution of $5,000.

A statement similar to the written explanation handed out in Columbus was made by Mrs. Murray to a representative of The Star at local police headquarters Friday afternoon. In the statement here, she also said that ill health had handicapped her greatly in her work, making it impossible to give close attention to business details. She denied that she had solicited funds for the Woman's Historical Foundation and that her visits to Marion and other cities were solely for the purpose of gathering data for literary productions.

"I regret very much that the name of Dr. Harding, who is a very estimable gentleman, was brought into the case," she said. "He has no connection with it whatever."

Admits Identity

Mrs. Murray states that she is the Elizabeth Murray listed in Who's Who in America as a graduate of numerous schools and colleges, author of a novel and daughter of a former United States Senator, and authorities believe that her representations are true, in view of the fact that her extensive luggage, consisting of 10 pieces, contained numerous books, magazines and manuscripts apparently bearing out her claims.

Mrs. Murray was here twice during September, leaving the first time on Sept. 16, when she gave her first check, and returning about two weeks ago. The checks were given on a bank in Tampa, Fla., which is listed as one of Mrs. Murray's places of residence. Other cities included in the list are Los Angeles and Washington, D. C., the latter being headquarters of the Woman's Historical Foundation.

Night Desk Sergeant L. E. Reardon of the local police department and his wife went to Columbus, Friday, and brought Mrs. Murray back for the hearing, arriving shortly after noon. Settlement of the case and Mrs. Murray's release was effected after she called in L. E. Myers to act as her atorney.

Mrs. Murray gives her age as 46. She is of small stature and frail and her general appearance seemed to bear out her assertion that she has been in ill health.

All water bills now due must be paid by Monday, Oct. 11, to avoid the extra charge. The Marion Water Co. adv. 1

AMERICAN WOMAN START WORLD TOUR TO STUDY PEOPLES

AFTER completing long terms of service with the Near East Relief in Armenia, three American women have started on a trip around the world for a study of the people and conditions in little known regions. They are Miss Helen Mayes, of Henderson, Texas; Miss Caroline Silliman of New Canaan, Conn.; and Miss Janet McKay of New Haven, Conn.

Their starting point was the city of Alexandropol, Armenia. Their journey will carry them through the interior of Turkestan, Persia, India and China.

On their return they are planning to resume their child welfare work among the Near East Relief orphans.

PERSONNEL OF HARDING HIGH BAND ANNOUNCED

Members of Organization Pledge Themselves to Strict Disciplinary Rules

The personnel of the Harding High School Band, organized under the direction of H. M. Temple, superintendent of music in the City Schools, was announced today.

Members of the band, who made their debut last Saturday at the Galion-Marion game, have pledged themselves to strict disciplinary rules and drills. The instrumentation is as follows:

Drum major, John McIntyre; solo clarinet, Felix Reber; first clarinet, Judson Kerr; first clarinet, Dorothy Creasap; second clarinet, Harry Dorsey; piccolos, Richard Cowan and Roland Snow; alto saxophones, Milford Mohr and Herbert Gompf; solo cornets, Richard Parish and William Guthery; first cornet, Harold Hinamon; second cornet, Julian Walker; soprano saxophone, Elma Sage; second cornet, Dwight Scranton; alto horns, John Parish and Wilbur Van Meter; trombones, Leonard Parker and Clark Heckler; baritone, Edward Sloan; tuba, William Dowler; side drums, Walter Davis and Dwight Barger; bar drums, Paul Thomas and cymbals, Glenn Duffey.

The advent of girls in a band is a comparatively new idea in this city but has been found so successful elsewhere that it has been instituted here.

Golden rule is still extant, though many seem to prove the rule of brass more worldly serviceable.

LET'S RUN THIS THUG OUT OF TOWN

This is Fire Prevention Week

The most disreputable character in this town of ours is Fire. He is our vilest murderer, our biggest thief, our most treacherous enemy. Let's all cooperate to run him out of town.

In 1924, the average burning rate for the nation as a whole was $1,504,279 every day. Last year it was larger. Figure it down to minutes, and you see that $1,044 goes up in smoke every time your watch ticks off sixty seconds.

And remember this—two out of every three fires are preventable. That means that two out of every three fires here and in other communities, are caused by ignorance or by carelessness.

This is Fire Prevention Week—a time to give serious thought and take serious action. Let's all learn to be sure that our matches, cigars and cigarettes are out before we toss them aside; let's make sure that chimneys and flues are in good condition; let's keep our homes, stores and factories clean and free from rubbish; let's build as safely as we can and take every means to protect which we build.

Let's all do everything we can to run Fire out of our town.

ELEVEN MEMBERS OF TUG'S CREW KILLED

Boat Rammed By French Liner Paris Maneuvering To Enter Havre Dock

Havre, France, Oct. 9—Eleven members of the crew of the tug Ursus were killed early today when the tug was rammed and sunk by the French liner Paris while the latter was maneuvering to enter the dock here.

The tug, which carried a crew of 15 was cut completely in two. Other harbor craft rushed to the rescue immediately and managed to save five of the tug's crew who were found struggling in the darkened waters of the harbor. One of these, the cabin boy, who was found clinging to the smokestack of the wrecked tug, died a few hours later.

CENTRAL OHIO EAGLES TO COME HERE SUNDAY

Buckeye Aerie, No. 337, To Initiate Class of From 140 to 150

Delegations of visitors from Eagles Lodges throughout Central Ohio are expected here Sunday at a district meeting of the order to be held in the Eagles building on W Center-st. Included among the guests will be several officers of the state and national organizations.

The district meeting, which is one of a series held during the year, will take place in connection with a dinner at noon and will be followed by the initiation of between 140 and 150 candidates by Buckeye Aerie, No. 337. This will be first initiation since the beginning of the membership campaign recently launched by the local lodge. It is hoped to increase the enrollment of Buckeye Aerie to 2,000 before the close of the campaign late in the winter.

GOLD SHOWERS ON SERIES PLAYERS

New York, Oct. 9—The 1926 world series no longer is a spectacle. All the hippodroming has gone out of it. Today, its just a ball game—and a tough one, with the Yankees lumbering down the stretch and the Cardinals striving desperately to stave off the defeat that casts its shadow around the corner.

It's a purely business porposition now—with a possible $50,000 hanging on every pitched ball; the difference between a winner's and loser's share hinging on every long fly and every double play.

In the first two or three games, the strain of play is tempered somewhat by the knowledge that a nervous slip, while troublesome, may not be necessarily fatal. There is a chance to redeem it later.

First Musical Play of Season Booked at Grand

NEWS OF MARION'S STAGE AND SCREEN

THE season's first and probable one of a few legitimate theatrical attractions this year is being announced for Wednesday, Oct. 20 by Manager E. J. Sharpless of the Grand Theater.

It is "No No Nanette" the musical comedy that in the last few years has achieved the most substantial of musical comedy fame.

"No, No, Nanette" will be at the Grand for two performances, matinee and night.

Matt Smith, well-known theatrical publicity man and for whom Manager Sharpless worked 25 years ago, is in Marion today making arrangements for the coming of the large company.

According to Mr Smith, the company playing Marion is the only one out this year. Last year there were some six companies playing in the United States, and several across the Atlantic. If one reads the daily newspapers one knows it was to "No No, Nanette" that Queen Marie of Roumania went the other night in Paris just to get atune to night life she will encounter on her visit here. The New York company of "No, No, Nanette" recently ended a long engagement.

Perhaps a word about "Nanette" will be not amiss. The musical comedy first gained notice in Chicago several years ago when it broke all long run records in the Windy City. The play ran nearly a year. The following winter—last year—six companies were out, all doing record business. Marion theater-goers probably noted the enthusiasm with which Columbus greeted the musical comedy.

"No, No, Nanette" was adapted from a comedy entitled, "My Lady Friends," the story of Jimmy Smith the Bible publisher who wanted to make everyone happy and did so with his money—much to his regret later on.

In the coming company of "No No Nanette" are Johnnie Fields, Mary Spoor, Madeleine McMahon, Jack Parsons, Irene Comer and a large company of assisting artists.

Recalling Will Rogers pleasant engagement in Marion it is interesting to note that the cowboy humorist will play 50 return dates in the first 60 stands of his current concert tour. The first 60 last year did not include Marion, however.

Rogers opened his new tour Monday on Bronxville, N. Y. He plans to use considerable of the material he picked up on his recent European trip.

What are years to "Abie's Irish Rose?" Marion has nearly forgotten it once saw the Anne Nichols show. And, yet it runs on and on in New York. The two thousandth performance is approaching in New York and, according to Variety, there is talk of the probability of a sixth-year run.

Interesting pictures booked here next week.

Corinne Griffith is to be at the Marion the first half of the week in "Unto Her Kingdom," with a comedy and Pathe News added.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday will see a dog star holding the Marion's screen. He is Thunder and the picture is "His Master's Voice." The humans in the cast include Marjorie Daw, Mary Carr and George Hackathorne.

"Poker Faces," with Edward Everett Horton and Laura LaPlante is booked for the Grand for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

And, when we called Manager Sharpless for his last half of the week picture he said it was "The Cat's Pajamas." And, in it one will find Ricardo Cortez, Betty Bronson and Theodore Roberts.

The Oakland's program includes:

Monday and Tuesday: Harold Lloyd in "For Heaven's Sake;" Wednesday and Thursday, "Dame Chance," with Julanne Johnston and Robert Frazier; and Friday and Saturday, "That Girl Oklahoma," with Ruth Mix. Overtures on the organ by Miss Mildred Grabiel also are features of Oakland programs.

The Valentino old pictures still are going great blazes these days. For instance, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" was brought into New York last week and did tremendous business. "The Delicious Little Devil," made in April, 1919, has been brought out. Valentino had a minor role. "The Conquering Power," made in 1921, with Alice Terry starred and Valentino in a suporting role, also has been reissued, as has "All Night," a film released originally in 1918, with Carmel Myers featured.

And, these Valentino reissues recall to mind how sentiment changes as years go by. The anti-German propaganda that swept the nation during the days of the World War was great stuff then in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." With what relish most of us saw German soldiers participating in drinking and vice orgies!

Now the picture is being reissued. The German consul general in America has protested some of the scenes and five have been cut from the picture in deference to his wishes. These scenes included the shooting of Belgian civilians by German troops to the accompaniment of scornful laughter from German soldiers; wild drinking parties and feasting orgies of German officers; attack on French landlord's daughter; stealing works of art, among them a golden bathtub, and mistreatment of an officer's attendant by a German general.

It is just as well that these things have been eliminated. They probably would be as distasteful to the majority of Americans today as they are to the German people. The intervening years have brought a "now-it-can-be-told" attitude that can see through war propaganda—for the duration of peace, anyway.

John Barrymore's next picture, "Francois Villon," will be the American debut of a celebrated German character actor, Conrad Veidt. When Barrymore first suggested obtaining the services of Veidt friends remonstrated with him, insisting the star should not have a person of such outstanding ability in "Francois Villon" lest he steal some of the star's glory. Barrymore, one of a select few of the upper stratum of moviedom who do not fear competition in their picture, straightaway opened negotiations with Veidt to enact the role of Louis XI.

The German is now on his way to report at the United Artists studio. His present plans call for only one picture to be done here, since he has a contract for a film to be made in Germany in January.

Veidt, who is 33, is best known in this country for his work as the sleepwalker in "The Cabinet of Dr Caligari." With Emil Jannings he made several productions for Ufa.

He does not believe in excessive use of makeup, saying, "I think actors should look like human beings. Their own faces, their own eyes should express the emotions. Make-up is well enough if aplied so that it is not detectable, but many screen actors look unnatural, they are so made-up. I like to let my face do the work, to show myself on the screen as a human being."

Since "The Bat" has demonstrated to film producers that audiences like to see movie versions of stage thrillers plans are being laid to put "The Gorilla" on the screen.

The clan of "Fascinating Youth" is to gather again. That is to announce the sixteen youngsters who made that film while students at the Paramount picture school are going to make another picture. Bringing these young persons together again is no mean task, since they have scattered considerably in the search for stardom. Charles Rogers, who played the lead in "Fascinating Youth," entered the school while still a student in the University of Kansas. Today he is considered one of the brightest prospects in filmdom. So good has his work been in "Fascinating Youth," "So's Your Old Man" and "More Pay Less Work," the latter made by William Fox to whom he was loaned by Paramount, that he was awarded the male lead in "Wings" Paramount's super-special feature depicting the exploits of the U. S. air service in the World war.

COUNCIL TO CONSIDER POLICE PENSION BILL

Approximately $600 Now in Fund Will Be Used as Nucleus, Claim

An ordinance providing for the establishing of a police pension fund in Marion is to come before the City Council at its meeting Monday night and adoption of the proposal is practically certain, according to reports from officials.

Approximately $600, representing profits from the recent pension fund benefit concert and several contributions from other sources, is now in the hands of Safety Director W. B. Strayer and will be used as a nucleus to which substantial additions are likely to be made during the next few years. If the condition of municipal finances permit, it is probable that council next year will vote a contribution to the fund from the city treasury.

That the fund will soon reach proportions which will be ample for payment of pensions when the need develops, is indicated by the fact that numerous local business firms and individuals have announced their readiness to contribute. Statements to that effect were made by business men during the recent controversy which developed over the sale of advertising for the pension benefit concert.

Uline Case Up

Council is also expected to take action Monday night on a proposal to grant a six months' leave of absence with half pay to H. D. Uline, veteran captain of the Mark-st fire department who was stricken several weeks ago and is slowly recovering at his home, 206 Wallace-st. Certain conditions prevent payments from the firemen's indemnity fund to Captain Uline and action by council is necessary. A favorable vote on the proposal is likely in consideration of Captain Uline's 30 years of faithful service as a member of the department.

POMERENE PAYS HARDING TRIBUTE

Former United States Senator Pomerene opened his speech here Friday night with an eloquent tribute to the late President Warren G Harding, recalling the close bond of friendship existing between them while they were associated in the Senate.

"I can not proceed without paying tribute to those dear friends of myself and Mrs. Pomerene who have been called to the Great Beyond," he said. "Of them might be said the words of Kipling, 'They could walk with king, nor lose the common touch.'

"No man ever had a finer personality than Warren G. Harding. He was always a Republican. I was always a Democrat, but I can say in truth that no two senators of opposite political faith were ever better friends nor had greater confidence in each other. When he was taken by death I grieved for not only the loss of a president but the loss of a friend.

"And so when Mrs. Harding died both Mrs. Pomerene and myself lost a dear and loyal friend. I never heard and have never allowed any one to say anything in my presence reflecting on Warren G. Harding's personal or political affairs without expressing most emphatic resentment.

"I feel that I would not be doing my duty as a friend should I not preface my remarks here tonight with these words."

TRYING to compare the Chrysler "60" with an ordinary type of Six is like trying to compare two totally different things.

There can be no comparative measure of value, for instance, between the Chrysler "60", with its sixty-mile-and-more-per-hour capacity, and another car offering much less.

Just as sharply defined is the difference in the comfort of these sixty Chrysler-miles and the lesser speed and the less easeful speed of the other

The vital factor which makes greater value in Chrysler "60" has its source in the-one-thing-which-cannot-be-copied—Chrysler creative engineering and precision manufacturing as expressed in the plan of Standardized Quality.

In the Chrysler "60" it expresses itself especially in qualities which stand out so sharply that you cannot mistake them—the most beautiful riding and handling qualities you have ever experienced, a most amazing agility, and a gushing wealth of power that never halts or hesitates for a single second.

Chrysler performance, long life and quality. Roomy, luxurious bodies with beautiful Mohair upholstery in enclosed models. Attractive new color harmonies. Sixty miles, and more, per hour. Lightning acceleration. Amazing economy of 22 miles to the gallon. Characteristic Chrysler smartness and beauty. Phenomenal riding ease. Chrysler four-wheel hydraulic brakes. Oil-filter and air-cleaner. Full pressure lubrication. Seven-bearing crankshaft. Impulse neutralizer. Manifold heat control. Road levelizers, front and rear. The new lighter six Chrysler "60" is the lowest-priced Six ever built which combines all these fine car features.

The Stubborn Problem of 31 Years Solved in the Rubber-Silenced Chassis

Four vitally important features, plus the perfect coordination of every working part, render the Greater Oakland Six with Rubber-Silenced Chassis practically vibrationless at all speeds.

1 The Harmonic Balancer—built into the Oakland crankshaft—eliminating torsional vibration.

2 Close-up section of engine mounting, showing rubber cushion and complete rubber insulation between motor support and frame side-member.

3 Cut-out view of Rubber-Silenced drive unit on transmission main drive shaft, showing rubber cushion.

4 New heavy cross-member for the Oakland frame completing a super-rigid support for the entire power-plant and body assembly.

These features—found in their entirety only in the Greater Oakland Six—impart a smoothness and quietness of operation and a freedom from closed car rumble unsurpassed by any other automobile, regardless of price.

Woman in Athletics.

Man no longer stands alone in the field of athletics. The day when he did is a thing of the past. It is up to him to look to his laurels. He has been slumbering a lot, and if he doesn't wake up pretty soon he is liable not to have any.

This, in substance, is the way Mrs. Millie Gade Corson, the second woman to swim the English channel, takes to tell man that he may be holding the title of the weaker sex half a century hence. She reasons that the same rate of advance woman has made in athletics in the past fifty years, will put her far ahead of man in the next fifty, and it may be said that, if the same comparative rate of advance is maintained for the next half century, she's absolutely right about it.

Mrs. Corson lays the foundation to her claim by going back to the Victorian era, when woman's participation was limited largely to horseback riding, croquet, battledore and shuttlecock. Woman has forgotten all of these save horseback riding and is endeavoring to excel man at his own games. Today she is flying and parachuting, motor and motor-cycle racing, swimming, diving, skating and playing tennis, football, cricket and hockey. She throws the hammer, discus and javelin. She has become a fair boxer and wrestler and attained some speed both in straight-away running and over the hurdles. In gymnastics she has become highly skilled, excelling in some, notably wire walking and balancing. She fishes and hunts big game and small and has become expert with rifle, revolver, shotgun and bow and arrow. And all of this, or the overwhelming proportion of it, woman has accomplished in fifty years.

"While woman have been surpassing old records and creating fresh ones," Mrs. Corson says, "men have stood still, and I would advise them to get a real push on if they do not want to take second place for ever and aman.

"Women realize nowadays that there is room for them at the top when they get there, and this fact has given them a confidence that is growing day by day. They do not look up to men in the way they used to. Instead, they are contemplating them merely as rivals. I do not think men have realized this fact to any extent, but I feel that they will be forced to do so as time goes on. There is a distinct danger of women going right ahead, and the only remedy for men is to wake up and go out to insure that they do not drop into second place."

And that's the way woman is thinking—and has been talking ever since Gertrude Ederle swam the English channel in record time! It's mighty lucky for man's peace of mind and feeling of superiority that that fat French butcher went out and made a little channel-swimming record of his own!

"The Good Old Days."

So many who have attained or passed middle life are so inclined to prate of the "good old days" to the disparagement of the present, that there is grave possibility that those of the younger generation may be misled into the delusion that they have been cheated of unusual opportunities for joys and happiness by being born too late. Such is the general tendency toward this "good-old-days" stuff, that it is refreshing to hear a veteran of the standing of Judge Elbert H. Gary come out as a champion of life as it is today and explode the hoary old fiction.

"So often people make the mistake of saying and believing that the times that have gone were the happiest in American life," said Judge Gary in a recent interview. "I am inclined to think that this is far from the truth. I do not believe that the individual of fifty years ago was as happy as the individual of today. He worked very much harder, and although there is much satisfaction in work, I can not help but feel that work without leisure is not conclusive to real happiness. The advantages open to the humblest among us today were unheard of fifty years ago. The wealthiest Americans didn't have the opportunities—of travel, of learning, of participation in the best the world has to offer—that are within the reach of every one today.

"American culture is greater today than in the past. This is a statement that will be challenged by many who cling to the belief that the day of culture passed with the coming of the automobile, the telephone, the motion picture, the radio and all the other evidences of mechanical progress. They believe that culture was nourished by firesides on farms and in undeveloped cities, when men and women, for want of other amusement and recreation, had to bury their heads in books and imbibe the wisdom of masters of literature. There is much to be said for this point of view, but there is more to be said against it.

"Not everybody read in the old days. Many spent what little leisure they had in other pursuits—often not as wholesome as listening in on a radio or taking a ride in an automobile What culture we had was due to individual interest and not to the backwardness of the times. In fact, we had it in spite of lack of progress. The men and women who were interested in reading and the better things of life then have their counterparts, many times over, in men and women who are interested in the same things today.

"Culture lies in travel of the mind, the body and spirit. We have achieved and are achieving all three. Our horizons are continually broadening."

Judge Gary, had he cared to do so, might have offered almost countless proofs of the soundness of the position he has taken. Had he desired, or seen fit, to be personal, he might have stated that there are in the country today thousands upon thousands of young men of comparatively modest income who are supporting themselves and such families as they may have amid such comforts and conveniences as were unknown in his youth, and at the same time are laying up funds for the future.

Men of modest means are living in better homes today, amid better surroundings, with greater opportunities for health, wealth and happiness than ever before in the world's history. Not only are they better, more comfortably and more healthfully housed, but they and theirs live better, dress better, eat better, have more opportunities for educational and cultural advancement, for recreation, for entertainment and amusement than ever before.

We make the statement without fear of future embarrassment, that were the average man asked to live today under the conditions under which the average man of wealth lived fifty or sixty years ago, he would consider it a hardship. And were the average man of today forced to put up with the inconveniences under which the most exalted and wealthiest of the land existed 100 years ago, he would consider himself outraged.

Social life was more general half a century ago than now. We mean by this that it was more comprehensive and not so much divided up into clubs, circles and cliques. It is possible that the spirit of neighborliness extended further. But aside from this, it is all a myth that there were possibilities for joys and happiness then which do not obtain now. There are greater possibilities along that line today than ever before. If we do not improve them, the fault is ours, not that of the times.

Did you ever experience a finer October day than Friday? And the odd phase of the thing is that the weather bureau predicted it. "Accidents will happen."

It is now announced that Queen Marie will not visit Columbus. What's the use of having the highest tower in the state, anyway, only to get turned down like that?

We see mighty little merit in the advice of the London beauty expert who says: "Work your face if you would have good looks." That may pass for a time or two, but one who "works his face" too frequently is bound to grow decidedly tiresome to the public.

What is being done from day to day to the written law is something awful, but the unwritten variety seems to be moving along as smoothly and quietly as a duck in a cemetery lake.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS—WATCH FOR THE FIRST TOUCH DOWN.

Pollution Cause of Anxiety.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Through the past Winter there has been heated discussion in the congress over the question of Chicago's water supply. I happened to be a member of the committee which had to deal with it. My experience as a sanitarian director had given me knowledge of the scientific questions involved, but it was very interesting to see how far-reaching are the political and commercial effects of Chicago's efforts to supply its citizens with pure drinking water.

One of the greatest problems of the future is the supply of pure drinking water to the great cities of America. It is a question intimately related to one of the evils of modern civilization—the gathering together of great masses of people in the cities. The centers are rapidly growing, as the rural sections are decreasing in population. With a scattered population it is easy to find water for domestic uses, but as these great aggregations increase until they number teeming millions, the supply of water will become a very vital problem indeed.

I happened to attend a meeting of engineers a few years ago. They were seriously considering the question as to what would be done to give New York City an abundance of water when its population should double. The Hudson river is salt water for a good many miles north of the harbor. There are no great bodies of fresh water near New York. By the expenditure of millions, great reservoirs have been built in the mountains and the fresh water streams corraled. But of course there must come a time when this supply will be exhausted.

It is natural to think of the Great lakes as a means of supply for the Middle West. But here special difficulties present themselves. It is easy for Detroit to get a supply of water out of Lake St. Clair and to discharge its effluent into the river below the city. This arrangement is impossible in Milwaukee or Chicago because there is no fixed current to carry the effluent away from either city. It is true of Chicago particularly, because of its location at the end of the lake, that adverse winds will direct the current containing the discharge from the sewers into the section of the lake from which the water is drawn.

Of course it is possible to treat the sewage in such a way as to render it incapable of doing harm to the human body. But even so there must be overcome the psychological effect of demanding the use for domestic purposes of a mixture of pure and treated waters.

There are variations in the levels of the Great Lakes due to the varying rainfall of different seasons. At the present time the lake levels are low, and navigation has been interfered with. This has coincided with the withdrawal of water from Lake Michigan to supply the domestic needs of Chicago. Believing much of the trouble was due to Chicago's act, there was an outburst of indignation from the Great lakes region. Canada has not been well pleased with the situation. All in all, Chicago has had a dectic time.

Out of discussion and debate will come some solution of this particular issue, but the controversy has drawn attention to a very important problem—the ultimate water supply of the cities of the Middle West. The problem of these cities is no more pressing, however, than the problem of all other North American cities.

The good health of any community depends largely upon two things—the water supply and the milk supply. If you can guarantee to your family good water and good milk you can almost insure good health and long life to every member of your household.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

W. U. S. Q.—How can I reduce?

2.—What is the best treatment for arthritis?

A.—Weight reduction is chiefly a matter of self-control as regards diet. For full details send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—For this condition, massage, baking, electricity—all have their value. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and restate your question.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Listen carefully to Mr. Angarola, a young man who has just gone to Kansas City to head the department of painting in the Art Institute there.

"I am always glad to hear a person say he doesn't understand painting," he says. "As soon as those who are trying to affect wisdom will admit they don't know things, all of the arts in America will be advanced tremendously. Every one is too apt to say he doesn't like things when he doesn't know what they are about. The public should be open-minded and willing to have things explained."

Most of us are very much bent on making a good impression on others. We desire to seem to know more than we do. That is one of the most common of human failings. It takes courage to show our ignorance by asking questions—but it is the one best way to learn.

E. H. Gary, eighty years old, head of the United States Steel corporation, isn't through thinking or working. He is interested in the new steel combination in France, Germany and Belgium. "Competition is still, more or less, the life of trade," says Gary.

And Gary is not much interested in a five-day week. Not many people will be interested in that at present. Most of us, who are interested in our work, find six days of it is not too much. It is not enough to do what there is to be done. Most of us work too little, not too much.

Don't be discouraged. There is still honesty in the world. A Kansas City woman lost a handbag containing more than $1,600. A street car conductor found it and returned it. That's just the ordinary routine of duty. There are thousands of others who would do the same thing. Try the test on yourself! Wouldn't you have returned that handbag?

Mrs. Thomas Hardy, wife of the greatest living English author, says she does not believe in wives of great men rushing into print. She says they should be satisfied to help their husbands, and be content with the reflected glory. Mrs. Hardy looks after her husband's business affairs. Mrs. Hardy is evidently a modern business woman, but an old-fashioned wife. A great many men need somebody to look after their business affairs, but not many men shed glory enough for their wives to be reflected in.

Who's Who and Why.

OGDEN L. MILLS.

The career of Representative Ogden L. Mills, of New York City, the Republican candidate for governor of the Empire state, has been one of extreme activity.

Born in Newport, Rhode Island, on August 23, 1884, he attended Harvard, from which he secured two degrees. He won his law degree there in 1907, and began the practice of law in New York City the following year.

He was elected to the New York state senate in 1914, remaining in that body until the entrance of the United States in the World war when he resigned. Entering the army with the rank of captain he served nineteen months, passing the most of this time overseas in active duty.

On returning from Europe he ran for congress and in 1920 was elected to the lower house, where he has since served.

Mr. Mills is a director of at least a half dozen large corporations, and is a member of five exclusive clubs.

The Five-Day Week.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

The adoption of a five-day week by the Ford Motor company, whatever the reasons behind it may be, is an event of note in American labor history. Its effect upon individual earnings, upon the profits of the corporation and upon the morale of the workers will be watched with the keenest interest.

At the forty-sixth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in Detroit this week, the five-day, forty-hour week promises to be the subject of widest discussion among delegates. President Green starts with a declaration in favor of the Ford policy, but is cautious enough to say it "must come gradually." He points to the tremendous advance in the arts in recent years in making possible successive reductions in the working day.

No one will deny the effect of machinery and large-scale production upon the efficiency of labor, and the volume of production. Whether the total community income and the national dividend can be increased by further reducing the number of hours of work is a question which no one can answer out of hand. The results of the experiment Ford is making will throw valuable light upon it.

Vagrant Verse.

TO A POET 1,000 YEARS HENCE.

I who am dead a thousand years,
And wrote this sweet acadic song,
Send you my words for messengers
The way I should not pass along.

I care not if you bridge the seas,
Or ride secure the cruel sky,
Or build consummate palaces
Of metal or of masonry.

But have you wine and music still,
And statues and a bright-eyed love,
And foolish thoughts of good and ill,
And prayers to them that sit above?

How shall we conquer? Like a wind
That falls at eve our fancies blow,
And old Moconides the blind
Said it three thousand years ago.

O friend, unseen, unborn, unknown,
Student of our sweet English tongue,
Read out my words at night alone:
I was a poet, I was young.

Since I can never see your face,
And never shake you by the hand,
I send my soul through time and space
To greet you. You will understand.

Q. I would like to know if counting in the United States goes any higher than decillion? F. R.

A. The highest numeration so far as we know is vingtillions, which is a considerably larger number than decillion. A vingtillion is one followed by sixty-three ciphers.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Oct. 9—No one quite understands the Broadway chorus man. Most stage folk like to be as conspicuous as a wife at Tex Guinan's night club. The chorus man does not. In off hours, the Rialto never sees him.

His ambition appears to rise no higher than to dance and smirk across the stage with a frozen smile. He is selected solely for good looks and dash and yet he never figures in the tawdry romances of the street.

Among his fellow players he is just as aloof on stage as off. On tour he rarely stops at the same hotel with the cast. Top salary is about $50 a week and with vicarious engagements he manages to live and dress well. He is invariably self-effacing and courteous.

A few chorus men have risen to stellar roles, but the majority are content to drift along in the same groove from season to season. They are birds of a feather who flock together and show no interest in any one not a member of their group.

At rehearsals they usually group apart and await the stage director's summons. First nights do not worry them a whit. They do their stuff with the mechanical precision of puppets and with as little emotion. They are entirely conscious of being part of the scenery.

Many of them pool together for an apartment and do their own cooking. They rarely drink and usually go direct home from the theater. Extra money is earned posing in the commercial studios for collar ads and the like.

Where chorus men go when they grow too old for their slight parts is as unanswerable as where flies go in the wintertime.

Those unexpected little incidents on the stage which appear to happen so accidentally and which cause players to step out of their roles for a moment and hide titters always please the audience. It feels it has been "let in" on something. It is a grand bit of "hokum" and is usually rehearsed as carefully as a big scene. As a mirth provoker it is what the theater calls "sure fire."

Two prize fighters were tapping each other indifferently at the Garden. After a thunderous booing one snarled out: "What do you want for two dollars—a World war?"

Along Fifth avenue they call it "celebrity hour." It is between 5 and 6 when many notables take a before dinner stroll. There are stage and movie stars, capitalists, novelists painters and the like at which to gaze and the lesser lights who like to bask in the reflected glory. Celebrities are not no noticeable in other hours for even at luncheon they are usually transported in their cars—but between 5 and 6 they are on parade and a walk from the Waldorf to the Plaza reveals a generous chunk out of Who's Who.

A long-haired sidewalk preacher collects a good crowd just off the avenue most every evening. He chalks squares on the pavement and marks them "Heaven" and "Hell." When he stands in the square marked "Heaven" he paints a rosy picture of celestial joys and then stepping into the square marked "Hell" he thunders a picture of everlasting torment. He points to the faint red glow over Broadway as "the cauldron of eternal damnation." After his sermon he takes up a collection to aid in what he calls "spreading the word of the Lord."—Copyright, 1926.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS

Today's worst story is about a kid. Nobody ever seems to feel like there's any danger of hurting the kids by telling stories about them. And the kids help themselves anyhow. It's always safe to tell stories on kids and convicts, because they can't get back at you. At least, that's what the after-dinner boys think. I'm kinda particular myself, though, because the kid may grow up, and it's as sure as shootin' that the convict will get out just as soon as the parole board can call a special meeting to listen to his tale of woe.

This one will be on the kid, then, and I won't tell his name so's he won't grow up and pull my whiskers when I'm old.

The boy was bawling like sin, outside a farmhouse in Iowa, and some kind-hearted folks in an automobile stopped and started to try to give him a little sympathy.

"What's the matter? Can we do anything for you?"

"No, you can't help it, and neither can anybody now. The kittens is drowned; all six of 'em."

"Too bad, too bad! How did it happen?"

"Dad drowned 'em in the river."

"Well, well, that's sad."

"Sad? It's rotten mean, I claim! He drowned 'em this morning before I was up, after promisin' me last night that I could toss three of 'em in the river myself and watch him throw the others in! My dad ain't got no sense of honor at all!"—Copyright, 1926.

Red Cross To Launch Annual Roll Call Armistice Day

CHAPTER WILL SEEK $10,000 FOR 1927 WORK

Modified Pittsburgh Plan To Be Used Again in Coming Campaign

Arrangements for starting the tenth annual Red Cross roll in Marion on Nov. 11, Armistice Day, were made at a meeting of the executive committee of the Marion County Chapter of the organization held Friday afternoon at Red Cross headquarters in the Tomlinson Apartment building on S. Main st. An effort will be made to raise $10,000 in this year's membership campaign. Subscriptions in 1925 totaled $8,500.

Solicitation in the business district will take place on Armistice Day and at night the Red Cross will take part in the parade which is to be a part of the community celebration being planned by the American Legion. It is probable that there will be a Red Cross float advertising the work of the organization and giving publicity to the membership drive.

Residence Canvass

Canvass of the residence districts will take place Nov. 21, and the plan of campaign employed last year will be used again. This is known as the modified Pittsburgh plan, with local fraternities cooperating with the Red Cross in an effort to give every home in the community an opportunity to become affiliated with the organization.

Each of the four wards of the city will be assigned to some fraternal organization, the members of which will have complete charge of soliciting. One lodge, Lime City Council, No. 206, Jr. O. U. A. M. has already promised to handle the work in one of the wards.

Announcement of the name of the rollcall chairman, who is to direct the membership campaign, will probably be made Monday.

The membership fee in the Red Cross is $1 and this will be the amount collected from each person during the Roll Call unless the subscriber wishes to make a larger contribution. Fifty cents of each membership fee goes to the National Red Cross headquarters and the balance remains here for use in the relief and charity work of the local chapter. As a consequence of this arrangement, contributions exceeding $1 will be of exceptional value for the home organization.

To Succeed Hulse

Affairs of the Marion County Chapter of the Red Cross will be in charge of Mrs. George T. Geran, vice chairman, after Nov. 1, when Guy H. Hulse, the chairman, will leave the city to take charge of his new position as field secretary of the National Association of Retail Credit men.

Mr. Hulse's permanent successor will not be elected until the annual meeting of County Red Cross, which will be held within a few weeks after completion of the roll call campaign.

NEGRO TAKEN FROM JAIL AND LYNCHED BY MOB

Dover, Tenn., Oct. 9—Herbert Bell, negro, was taken from the county jail here shortly after midnight by a mob of 75 men, carried into the woods three miles from here, hanged to a tree and his body riddled wtih bullets.

Bell was held on a charge of murder following the killing of Rufus Joyner, farmer, of Clarksville, Tenn., several days ago. Yesterday, in court at Clarksville, Sheriff Ellis was forced to draw his pistol to protect the negro and his wife from spectators in the courtroom.

Although the rolling stone gathers no moss the high roller scatters a lot of it.

Sewing Circles Won't Halt Stitching in New York Just to See Yanks Win

ON Board the Sport Writer Special Train, Oct. 9—The 1926 world series and everybody connected with it, from Babe Ruth and Rogers Hornsby down to the bat boys and me, was moving back to New York yesterday, that bright fall day. And I for one thought it was rather too bad. It was robbing a town that cares and cares, and giving the loot to one that doesn't care. At least not one hundredth as much.

None of the New York feminine fans will purposely wear the Yankee colors when they go to the Yankee Stadium today. None of the New York men will stick little cardboard Yankees or what have you in their hats. The grammar schools and high schools of Gotham will not suspend educational operations and assemble their students in the auditoriums of the school buildings to listen to the game over the radio. Of course, today is Saturday, but if it were Monday or Wednesday or any other good educational day they wouldn't. The members of the Women's Sewing Circle of the Second Presbyterian Church of New York, will not stop stitching for the heathens in order to tune in on the proceedings at the ball park.

The hostesses of New York will not serve cakes with little sugar baseball bats embossed on the edge. Nobody, in all probability, will sprain a lung yelling at the game nor will anybody throw confetti around Broadway promiscuously tonight—unless, of course, there happens to be a wedding. All these things and so many more that I need a whole edition to tell you about them, happened during the last four days in St. Louis. The baseball crowds out there seemed more like football. They were absolutely collegiate in their enthusiasm. So many red feminine hats were worn that the stands looked like the Harvard side of a stadium in November. Spectators leaped to their feet at all the crucial moments like so many sophomores, and certainly they bellowed just as loudly. The only thing needed to make the picture complete was an organized cheering section led by the mayor of St. Louis, Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, and Kenesaw Mountain Landis, each with a megaphone.

The Cardinals left St. Louis on their special train at 5:30 o'clock, Thursday afternoon. The Yanks on their's left about the same time. Nine Yankee wives were among those present, and six of the nine were wives of Yankee pitchers. Thy were Mrs. Herb Pennock, Mrs. Waite Hoyt, Mrs. Herb McQuade, Mrs. Urban Shocker, Mrs. Myles Thomas and Mrs. Walter Ruether.

Being a pitcher's wife, according to those young women, is a nerve wracking job, especially at a time like this.

"So much depends on a pitcher," explained Mrs. Pennock whose husband won the close, hard game of yesterday, "that we get terribly excited even though we go to the game assuring ourselves that we won't. There is always an indescribable emptiness inside me when my husband is working. I don't seem uneasy, nor do I make any noise, but I certainly go through a lot of torment, especially in the first and last innings. Those are agony for a pitcher's wife."

ATHLETES seem to be becoming as ardent beauty seekers as stage folk. Jack Dempsey, the world knows, had his nose remodeled. Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals has had a set of protruding teeth pushed back into line. I suppose the next we know, Honus Wagner will be having his face lifted.

THE radio is mightier than the typewriter. Out of all the visiting worthies who toiled in the press box at Sportsmen's Park, there was only one whom St. Louis knew or about whom St. Louis gave a hoot—and that was Graham McNamee. Mr. McNamee sat in the front row of the journalists' bower with his several assistants about him, talking low to a million invisible ears through his microphone and the fans who sat in the section adjoining his corner watched him as interestedly as they watched the field. Tuesday during the shower that temporarily halted the ball game the crowd applauded McNamee wildly and yelled for him to stand up "so they could see him."

Daily after the games were over he was surrounded by droves of radio fans who wanted to shake his hand and get his autograph across their score boards. Yesterday at the start of the game he was presented with an enormous sheaf of flowers by some admirer and his daily mail looks like a movie stars.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT
POMERENE ADDRESS

merely come to the conclusion that those who vote for me prefer me to the other candidate. I don't want any man or woman to be fooled on this proposition."

More than once during his address Mr. Pomerne emphatically stated that he will, if sent back to the senate, at all times be guided by the wishes and will of the majority of the voters, giving no consideration to personal prejudice, nor to the importunities of party or special influence.

Non-Political View

"Nine out of 10 questions coming before the house and senate have no political phase," he said. "In connection with great political questions which divide the people I am a Democrat but I will not embarrass a Republican administration when it comes to non-political matters. I will concede it to be my duty during the next six years as I did during those that I formerly served in the senate to find out what the majority of the people want and to direct my course accordingly or resign.

"I will not go to the senate beholden to any man or set of men on any question unless they represent a majority of the people. Any public official who does not so conduct himself should be defeated for re-election. He is not fit to occup a place of public trust. The purpose of public office is service. The highest call that can come to any man is to serve his fellow men, excepting service to his God. That is my philosophy of life."

Refers to Labor

In view of the fact that some Union Labor organizations have come out in opposition to Mr. Pomerene's candidacy, his reference to his attitude on the labor question was of particular interest and significance.

"I have heard of some dissatisfaction among certain elements of labor," he stated in opening that portion of his speech, making reference to a statement on his candidacy coming from the Federation of Labor. "I believe in collective bargaining; I believe in Union Labor; I believe in good wages and in good working conditions. Labor has accomplished all of its progress largely because of the conservative leadership under the late Samuel Gompers and the present head of the federation, William Green. Wherever there were differences with labor elements they resulted not from disagreements between conservatives and myself but rather with the radical or extreme elements."

Willis' Stand

Comparing his record on legislation friendly to labor with that of his opponent, Senator Willis, Mr. Pomerene said that while he supported the Clayton anti-trust bill, Mr. Willis, then a member of the house, voted against, being one of the 54 congressmen who failed to back the measure.

"I never have and never will approach any legislation except with an open mind," the former senator declared. "I will never allow myself to be dominated by any party or any section of the electorate. I will strive to find out what the majority of Ohio people want and that voice will be law to me."

The Wilson administration gave more good legislation to the country than any similar period of Republican administration since the Civil War, Mr. Pomerene declared. He referred in particular to the enactment of the Federal Reserve act and his part in the drafting and passage of this measure. He related that he and three other senators were chiefly responsible for the bill as it was finally submitted and that while some Republican legislators disapproved of some of its provisions, they voted for it because they regarded it as supplying one of the country's most vital needs. Senator Weeks, who later became Secretary of War, opposed some features of the measure but announced that he would be "guilty of treason" should he refuse to help in passing it.

Mr. Pomerene went on to show that when the Federal Reserve act reached the house it was fought and voted against by Mr. Willis, who made a speech declaring that the proposed banking system would revive "financial inflation" and strike a disastrous blow at civil service.

Raises Question

"If Mr. Willis feared such results, why did he not submit an amendment or another banking bill to replace the one to which he objected?" Mr. Pomerene asked. "I have never seen or heard of any great financial legislation coming from Mr. Willis during his term of service in either house or senate."

"The system against which Frank B. Willis voted is the greatest piece of financial legislation ever emanating from any legislative body. That is the judgment of all students of finance the world over," the Democratic nominee declared. This act will expire by limitation in six or seven years and it is up to the people to decide whether it ought to be amended and extended by its friends or by those who voted against it."

While the Federal Reserve Act was opposed by some financial interests at the time it was up for passage, every banker in the country would rise up in protest should an effort be made now to repeal it," Mr. Pomerene asserted.

"Mr. Willis gives the Republicans all credit for adoption of the budget system in government finances and fails to call attention to the fact that it was supported by Democratic legislators. It was up for consideration during the Wilson administration but when the bill was finally passed it contained unconstitutional features which forced President Wilson to veto it. Mr. Pomerene delared, adding that the same measure, with the objectionable features eliminated was finally enacted during the Harding administration."

Opposes Debt Cancellation

The speaker came out decisively against any proposal to cancel war debts.

"I am opposed to cancellation. I am old-fashioned enough to believe that charity begins at home," Mr. Pomerene said. "If we have any charity to dispense, let us rather cut the taxes of our own people than help people of other nations increase their armaments."

"We were good fellows when we loaned Europe money to help carry on its war. We were good fellows when we called our boys into training and sent two millions of them across the seas. We were good fellows when our boys were wounded, bled and died beside the European boys and now when the debts Europe promised to pay are long past due we are told that they hate us. We have some friends in this country who believe if we cancel, that hatred will be turned into love. That kind of teaching is a ghost story which satisfies some men, but thank God, not many."

Reason Not Sentiment

"We are told that cancellation of the debts will increase trade," the speaker continued in his discussion of the debt question. "I always believed that trade appeals to the head and not to the heart, to reason, not to sentiment. I am convinced that whether the debts were cancelled or not, Europe would continue to buy where goods are the cheapest and sell where prices are the highest. When I am told that trade would increase, I want to know who will be the guarantor.'

"The worst thing we could do today would be to cancel these debts," declared Mr. Pomerene. "We can't judge ourselves by European standards. There the military spirit is rampant. Cancellation of debts would increase credit and as credit expanded this would increase efforts to build up armies."

Mr. Pomerene said that he did not become a candidate this year from his own choice and volition. He had planned to spend the remainder of his life in his chosen profession, the practice of law, which he declared to be "his first love." When friends from all parts of the state insisted upon his entering the race, he felt that he "could not gracefully turn his back upon them."

Zimmerman Talks

The meeting was opened by Chairman Hector S. Young, who made special reference to Democratic candidates for judicial offices. Charles B. Zimmerman, candidate for attorney general, assailed the administration of Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, claiming that Crabbe has obstructed efforts of Governor Donahey to carry out his policies. He urged that Donahey be surrounded by officials who will not tie his hands.

John Zimmerman, father of Charles B. Zimmerman, praised the record of Mr. Pomerene as United States senator and spoke at some length on the need of legislation to aid the farmers.

Fletcher Speaks

Congressman Fletcher gave a brief talk introducing Mr. Pomerene and following the Pomerene speech won the crowd's approval with a longer address which was enlivened with humorous comments, chiefly at the expense of Senator Willis. He said that Willis has done much "legislating by conversation but that the people expect more than that these days. He declares that the senator is the only legislator on record who can "argue with his diaphragm and think with his lungs."

Mrs. Miller of Columbus closed the program with a talk directed particularly to women in the audience, in which she defended Mr. Pomerene's record on prohibition and woman suffrage legislation, saying that he voted against these proposals while senator solely because the people of Ohio had expressed their sentiments that way in preceding elections.

Baker's Band Out

Baker's Band played on the street and in the auditorium prior to the speech-making, which did not start until 8:45, three-quarters of an hour later than scheduled time, due to late arrival of Mr. Pomerene from Columbus and conferences which followed at Hotel Harding.

The former senator spoke at noon Friday at a Columbus Chamber of Commerce dinner and was accompanied to Marion by County Chairman Hector S. Young and Prosecuting Attorney Frank J. Wiedemann. Mrs. Pomerene came here later in the evening with Mrs. Maude Murray Miller, and was present at the meeting.

Out-of-Town Visitors

Included in the crowd at Friday night's rally were delegations of prominent Democrats from Kenton, Upper Sandusky, Bucyrus and other towns and cities near Marion.

W. W. Durbin of Kenton, former chairman of the state central committee, was seated on the platform with the speakers.

Representatives of the Cleveland Plain Dealer and the Scripps-Howard chain of newspapers were here to report the meeting.

Preceding the speeches in the Auditorium, Mr. Pomerene was entertained at dinner at Hotel Harding by Hector S. Young, Frank J. Wiedemann, George B. Scofield, John A. Key, and Howard Guthery.

Mr. and Mrs. Pomerene left early this morning for Cleveland, where Mr. Pomerene will be one of the principal speakers tonight at the Cuyahoga County Democrat campaign opening.

DAUGHERTY TRIAL

Grentert, a Swiss, for 20 shares of the American Metals Co. seized stock, made a few months before the Alien Property claim was passed, the report submitted in 1922 to Daugherty by Goff and A. R. Johnson, special assistant attorney general, answering a complaint regarding the claims passage which was sent to President Harding and other records.

Corridors Jammed

The corridors outside the jury room were packed with spectators and friends of the defendants. At 11:30 a. m., the jury still was deliberating. Daugherty awaited his fate in a room near the jury chamber while Miller stayed by his wife in the courtroom. Both defendants occasionally appeared in the corridor.

Neither seemed nervous, although Daugherty still was suffering from a cold and an inflamed eye.

The first felony trial of a former cabinet member in the country's history moved rapidly to a conclusion last night when the case unexpectedly went to the jury at 9:42 o'clock, after 23 days. Shortly before midnight, the jury was locked up for the night.

Conviction would carry a penalty of two years imprisonment, a $10,000 fine, or both. In his charge to the jury, Judge Mack told the jurors they could acquit or convict both defendants, or acquit and convict them separately.

they came. Only the hardiest of souls fared forth, however, and the crowd was not as great as on the occasion of the first two games here.

Interest High

It seemed that many of the furred and mackinawed denizens peered out of their igloos this morning and decided it would be a great day for draw poker by the old oil burner. Anyhow, some of them turned up missing.

But however cold the day, local interest was at fever heat and it was estimated by Broadway "bookies" that, between twelve noon and game time, as much as a million dollars would be placed on the winner's nose. The same source of information was responsible for the statement that as much as $15,000,000 would change ownership on the entire series, establishing a new betting record.

The Cardinals needing two victories to the Yankees' one, were rated today as slightly worse than a one to two shot, while those who wished merely to chance the anxious dollar on this afternoon's pastime were informed that they could give 10 to 9 and take their choice.

Bookies Not Anxious

The bookies were not particularly anxious to bet on Alexander in spite of that gentleman's reputed aversion to cold weather. It was to be quite a day, anyhow. New York had heard those tales of wild demonstrations on the banks of the Big Muddy and it was not the town to let any community outRabbit it. A committee of embryo Rotarians were to gather in front of the Yankee bench and serenade the heroic fellows with song and classic word, most of it penned by impromptu geniuses, who were willing to start at the bottom and work up.

Nothing was said about sending the boss into the field with a harp under one arm and a sprig of laurel for a sun visor, but gave the gentlemen time. They may think of these things as they go along.

Only Scant Cheer!

Some idea of just what was in store for the Yanks came when the club stepped out of the dugout at 11:50 o'clock. The first detachment was entirely minus George Herman Ruth, and was accorded a polite but scant cheer. Followed then a stage wait, which came to a dramatic end as the great man poked his noble conk into the light of day for all to admire and to see. The local larynx immediately registered a very creditable high C and the band played: "My Hero." One could almost sense the back drop with the Venetian moon glowing in the distance.

Meantime, St. Louis had come on the field wearing sweaters of cardinal red and a determined expression.

1st for 9 consecutive Years

For the ninth consecutive year Buick has won first choice of space at the National Automobile Shows.

This is Leadership! For this honor goes annually to the member of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce with the year's largest volume of business. For any other car to equal this would mean retaining continuous leadership until 1936—almost another decade.

The industrial history of America records no more brilliant achievement than these nine successive years of Buick dominance.

Social Activities

ONE of the most delightful social events of the season was the dinner dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Merritt C. McNeil and Dr. and Mrs. Frank R. Mann last night at the Marion Country Club. One hundred and twenty-five guests were seated at a table lighted with vari-tinted candles in low crystal holders showered in bows of tulle caught with rose-colored rosebuds and Asperatum and greenery. During the dinner and the later hours the guests danced to a program played by the Harding Ballroom Orchestra. Baskets of roses and fall bloom formed an attractive setting in the ballroom and in the parlors on the second floor where tables were arranged for cards. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Beach of Bucyrus, Mrs. H. B. Carpenter of Findlay and T. Marriott of Delaware.

YEAR'S JAIL FARE FORCES FATHER TO SURRENDER CHILD

A year ago the wife of James A. Hall, Kansas City, divorced him and was awarded custody of their daughter Grace Angela. Hall told the court he would "rot in jail" before surrendering her. After serving a year's sentence for contempt, living on bread and milk, his resistance is broken and he is willing to abide by the court's decree. But he says he is not sure of the child's whereabouts.

Baseball—and
Baseball Pools
Making Money

BY EDNA DUTTON

HASN'T this week just been about the most exciting one any one could ask for? Six whole days to say which team is going to win and air your very own private reasons just why it did or did not. It doesn't matter what the other fellow's ideas may be on the subject, you don't have to pay any attention to him for it's a ten to one shot he doesn't think an iota more of your deduction.

And then that little old pool that is bound to put in an appearance wherever two or more persons are gathered together. There is a thrill after the game starts and you just can't help but wonder if your little old two-bits won't like the much-quoted chickens come back home to roost and bring all the rest of the little sheckels with it.

AFTER all, the element of chance, like the politician, is always with us. It's a gamble with most of us on a chilly morning whether or not we are going to beat the boss down and who doesn't take a chance on the opening of a three-minute egg?

Of course, I agree there are a lot of people squandering their simoleons on a game of chance who should not do it and as a result the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker are decidedly out of luck and the sheriff picks out a cold day to come and turn a key in the old homestead.

But what about the other side of the picture which sometimes is seen off the silver screen? What about the chap that shoots his last dollar wins back 40, invests in oil stocks, sells the stock for a cool million or two, rescues the old folk from over the hill, buys back the old homestead and marries the girl?

THERE are safer, saner and undoubtedly surer ways of garnering a neat fortune though, I am sure. Just a short distance from here there is one of the neatest and most thriving shoe-shining stands in the city. And who do you suppose runs it? Two boys very much in the teen-age. Go past any school day and you will glean the bit of information that the proprietors are in school and will be back at such and such a time. Now who couldn't wait just a few minutes to patronize such future financiers as these young men are bound to be?

Then there is another business chap that brings me a popular magazine every Monday. There is not the slightest doubt in my mind but that he is a potential Andy Mellon or Hank Ford.

I was surprised one day to have my magazine delivered by an entire stranger who accompanied the regular salesman. After introductions were over and the weather discussed the topic of conversation was most adroitly brought around to tooth paste and I found myself listening to a sales talk that would put an insurance peddler way out of the running. Needless to say it was not long until I found myself signing on the dotted line and giving up the price of a steak without so much as winking an eyelash.

"He's selling the magazines for me this week. I only make a cent on the magazines and I make about 18 cents on this. Do you blame me?" was his concluding remarks in the conversation as he scampered away, and I am sure if he handed the rest of his customers the same line he had a good day and they got their money's worth in chuckles.

Marion Lodge of Eagles Plans for Charity Fair

Arrangements for a Charity Fair to be held during the week of October 25 have been made by Buckeye Aerie, No. 337, Fraternal Order of Eagles, in the Eagles' Building on W. Center-st.

The event is planned to raise funds for furnishing foods, clothing and other supplies and relief for the poor of Marion and vicinity during the winter months, a philanthropic work which the Eagles have been doing annually during the last seven years and which has been steadily growing.

During the winter of 1925, the Eagles' expenditures for charity in Marion totaled approximately $2,600 and it is expected that the amount this year will be much larger.

The entire club and lodge quarters of the Eagles on the second and third floors of their building will be used for staging the affair, the program for which includes park plan dancing every night during the week and various other revenue producing amusements. Committees to have charge of the event will be announced next week.

Aim of Lodge

The aim of the Eagles, according to information coming from John A. Abel, secretary of Buckeye Aerie, is to provide for needy persons who are not reached by other local organizations and public welfare agencies. This is accomplished largely through the cooperation of school officials and other public authorities and from other sources of information. The Eagles' charity work is not restricted to any particular line of relief, funds being used to take care of any needs that may arise in the home of the worthy poor. Last winter there were numerous purchases of food, clothing and coal, medical attention was provided in some cases and house rent was paid in a few instances.

Committees appointed from the membership of Buckeye Aerie devote a great amount of time during the winter to investigating applications for assistance and seeing that the needs of the applicants are supplied.

MRS. ADDIE HENTZE GIVES REPORT OF CONVENTION

Mrs. Addie Hentze, delegate to the Grand Temple meeting which was held in Cincinnati, Sept. 27, 28, and 29, gave an interesting report of the work of the convention at the regular meeting of members of the Pythian Sisters, No. 152, last night in Knights of Pythias hall. Nine calls were reported and routine business transacted. There was good attendance. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the hall.

FIRST REFORMED CHURCH CLASS IS ENTERTAINED

Members of the True Blue Class of the First Reformed Sunday School were entertained last night at the home of Misses Nellie and Mabel McPeek, Blaine-av. During a business meeting plans for a Halloween party were discussed.

300 ATTEND DISTRICT POCAHONTAS MEET

Columbus Selected As Next Meeting Place of Organization's School

Three hundred members in attendance at the annual meeting of District School, Nos. 6 and 7, Degree of Pocahontas, held yesterday afternoon and last night in Eagles' Hall with Mrs. Mollie Aldrich, district deputy great Pocahontas presiding. Past great chiefs of Columbus formed a team and draped the charter in memory of members of the School who died during the year.

Mansfield degree team had charge of the initiatory work. Minnetonka Band of this city entertained with a program. Mrs. Ella Smithers of Columbus was recommended as district deputy great Pocahontas for the coming year. Supper was served by the women of the Emanuel Baptist Church. Plans were made for the next district school which will be held at Columbus next year.

CONGRESSMAN FLETCHER AND WIFE ON PROGRAM

Congressman and Mrs. Brooks Fletcher contributed to the program at the first meeting of the season of members of the Greenwood Street Community Club yesterday afternoon at the school building. Mrs. Fletcher entertained with a group of vocal numbers, "Spring's a Lovable Lady" and "When Honey Sings an Old-Time Song." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. C. F. Baker. Congress Fletcher gave an interesting talk on "Child Psychology." Plans were made for a rummage sale in the near future at a brief business session. Mrs. Frank M. Knapp, membership chairman urged each member to bring a new member for the next meeting. The next regular meeting will be Nov. 5 instead of Nov. 5.

COLOTURA SOPRANO TO GIVE PROGRAM IN CITY

Phelma Louise Harper Lowe, coloratura soprano, assisted by members of the Park Street A. M. E. Church will present a program of spiritual and classical numbers in a recital to be given Tuesday night at the church. The program will begin at 8:15 o'clock. Preceding the concert a chicken supper will be served.

Cranky and Cowboy Writer Issue Plea to Ship's Passengers

By WILL ROGERS

W[illegible] I am back in Cuckooland, I [illegible] going to pull the old gag [illegible] how pretty good to [illegible] look good it looks "Per[illegible]" We are better off than any Na[illegible] Why just because we work [illegible] sperity is based on just what [illegible] and if you don't produce [illegible] are just out of luck. This old Pup has been raised on Scotch and its going to be pretty tough to drag down onto drinking moonshine.

Hughes on Boat

We had a marvelous trip over. And the best part about it was the chance we all had, on the boat of making the personal acquaintance of a man who has shaped a great many of the destinies that we are today prospering under. I had never met him personally and when I read that he was going to be on the boat I got kinder scared for I had told many a joke about him in fact in one of the best Comedy Scenes I ever had in the Follies one year I made up and did an impersonation of him, it was a "Burlesque" of the Dissarmament Conference in Washington, which he not only presided over but he was the originator of the idea of the whole thing. Now I bet you there is just lots of folks that have formed about the same opinion of Charles Evan Hughes that I had. I know lots of them on the boat told me they had. Every body conceded his ability.

On Same Program

One night at the Ships Concert when I was following him on the Programme I said, "I have followed every kind of act in the world in my years of experience on the Stage. But tonight I can claim the distinction of following the brainiest and most intellectual man we have produced in America in our Generation." Say they like to tore up the ship with applause, and there was a big sprinkling of Democrats too. Everybody always admired him and looked up to him in every way but the impression had always been sorter rooted into us that he was a pretty cold blooded proposition, that he didn't have much time for any little trifles and as far as a joke or any fun was concerned why we would have felt like a person was taking his life in his hands to pull one on him. Well all that is Apple Sauce. If there is a finer fellow to meet and to help you out on anything than Mr. Hughes I never met him.

Hear of Disaster

We had just got on the boat when we heard of the terrible Florida Disaster and of course everyone felt erry bad about it, and we commenced to figure out what we could do in our little way to try and do our bit. We had a very fine bunch of people, on, and some very distinguished men in public life. In addition to Mr. Hughes, was Mr. O'Connor, Chairman of the Shipping Board. Mr. Alec Moore who was a very capable Ambassador for us in Spain and who is always willing to help out on anything, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, Who procured his election before votes got so high in his State. He says he "hopes they get back reasonable before he comes up for election again." Then we had Representative Britton of Illinois (another place where you pay for 'em or you don't get 'em). Well he and Mr. Reed and Representative Aswell of Louisiana who had been over investigating the Cafe conditions in Paris. Then Ambassador Phillips of Belgium. (He and I were both coming in to report Ambassadorically.) Then Mr. Castle from our State Department, Mr. Cudahy, Editor of the Literary Digest, and a Host of other Notables.

We had to get bushel baskets

Well, we had a meeting, (looked like a Senatorial Investigation) and there is where I first met Mr. Hughes. When I was first introduced I didn't know whether to hold out my hand to shake, or to cover up and protect myself. Well he was so jolly and congenial, and we talked over what we would do. Somebody suggested that the money we collected, we send it direct to Mr. Coolidge as he had made the Appeal to the Country. Well I told them I would be a little afraid to risk that. So Mr. Hughes seconded my motion, he was also a little leary of Cal. That pleased me to have my judgment vindicated by such a man as Mr. Hughes. We suggested having him in our programme as one of the Entertainers. He said, "Well, I have been called everything else in my career, but an entertainer, but I will do my best."

Collectin' the Dough

We gave the Concert and he was supposed to be the serious end of our programme and then I was supposed to come along and black jack them out of what they had. Well he got out there and he was making such humorous remarks and such entertaining observations that he almost forgot to mention what the appeal was to be for, but then he switched on them and all I had to do when I went on was to have a bushel basket to put the checks in. Any amount gase us Thousands and five hundred checks, among them this same Mr. Hughes, who incidentally had to resign from the Cabinet to get out and provide for his future, (we ought to pay our good men more) but that's a thing I will take up with you later.

Down to Second Cabin

Well, the next night we decided to go down in the second Cabin and we didn't know if he would go. Why say, he would have done anything for the cause. Down we went and cleaned them, then the next night down in the third. (Now that's not the third as you might know it. It's College Professors and Students and people who went over to do something besides drink, and incidentally was the best audience of the whole trip.) Well our troupe headed by Mr. Hughes went down there. He said "He was going to open at Keith's Palace the next week, as he was a regular trooper now." Well, we jipped them altogether out of $34,000 at that time. When a modest retiring man come up to me and handed me a check, I told him I had nothing to do with the money, to give it to Mr. O'Connor. He said, "No, you take it." I looked at it, on some little bank out in Pennsylvania, then I looked at the amount and I thought he had written the numbers wrong. It was for $8,000 which brought our fund to $42,000.

Hughes Responsible

It broke all records for any collection at sea and it was mainly due to the hearty cooperation of Mr. Hughes. Say, if he had been running for President then he would have carried that Boat, Democrats and all. You should know people before you form your opinion of them for keeps, for if ever a man was misunderstood in regard to being a real genuine good fellow it's this Mr. Hughes. He has a lot of real humor, in fact I think you have to have to hang around with that Gang down there in Washington. He told me all about Disarmament and what chances it had of success. His Wife and Daughter were as pleasant and nice as he was.

About Florida

Now that reminds me. About this Florida fund. Due to a lot of people down there that are well off themselves and are able to go out and hire fixed up any damage that was done. Why they say the whole thing has been exaggerated. They are so afraid that it will hurt the reputation of their State and interfere with the Tourist crop that they give the better side of it. But I have talked with people that just today come from there and they say there is very urgent need for all the money they can get, and I don't think the thing should be allowed to dwindle down and the impression to get out that it wasn't needed. It was the poor people that was hit the hardest and they shouldn't be made to suffer just to try and make the State look like a Calamity couldn't hit it. Lord, it's no disgrace to have the elements take a crack at you.

All For One, One For All

A Cyclone is liable to come everywhere. Because one did come that don't mean that there will be another. There may never be another in that State in our time. A lot of people down there act like it was a personal disgrace and they want to keep it quiet. Let people help all they are able too. They might be called on tomorrow to help out some other part of the country. That's what makes this old land great. We cuss each other and we joke each other but you let the old pinch come and every man and his dog is with you. If the Red Cross say they want 10 million for Florida let 'em have it, they know more than anyone else what is needed, that's why we have such implicit confidence in them. Every dollar that goes to Florida helps some poor man and his family. We know the Mayors and Governors don't need it but by golly there is people in there that do need it, and its no disgrace to Florida to have it given to them.

The Last Frontier

Florida has a unique hold on everybody because everybody has either kin folks or friends there. It is our last Frontier. More poor people than rich went there. They went to try and better their condition and make a stake. They are working people. They were the people that will take a chance, and the people that will take a chance are the best people we have in America today. They got stout hearts. When they loaded all they had in an old Ford car and went to Florida to make a home for their children they were just as game and took just as big a chance as the old Guys in the Covered Wagons did years ago. Help them all you can. Don't listen to what these rich Guys say. Not only help them but go there and invest. You will make money. Good stuff in Florida will always be good. It's a marvelous winter place, and a great agricultural State. Everything happens for the best. That slump in prices that come they knew it had to come some time, so let it come and get it over with. Well a few of the Grafters survived that then this Cyclone come and blew them away. Now you got nobody there but the people that belong there. A country has got to be based on settlers and grafters. Prisco come out of it and looks like a billion dollars, and Santa Barbara is bigger and better than ever, and Florida will make a bigger and quicker recovery than any one of them, for they are used to doing things quick down there anyway. So if the red Cross says they need something they need it, so give. You are lucky that Hughes and I didn't get a crack at you. We would have made you dig up. Just think when Europe hears there was $42,000 that they didn't get. They will hate us sure enough. (Copyright 1926, The McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Rebuffed

THROUGH Mary Harrison's disapproving comment upon Mrs. Baker's shamming there ran a thread of admiration for the woman's histrionic abilities. If the curiosity-ridden fourth-floor lodger had planned to fix herself in the young girl's imagination she could not have selected a better scheme. I acquitted the forlorn woman of this, however. It was simply her overweening curiosity which had led her to attract Mary's attention by a sham swoon provided the girl's theory of her deception were correct.

"You may be right, Mary," I said, smiling at Dicky's young niece, whose eyes were dancing with excitement. "But, nevertheless, I must go up and ask her if there is anything I can do for her."

"You're wasting your time," Mary said stubbornly, and I recalled her words with a grimace when, after mounting the stairs to the fourth-floor room where Mrs. Baker lived, I received a grumpy, "Vat you vant?" to my knock upon her door.

"I am Mrs. Graham from the second floor," I answered cheerily. "Are you feeling better, and is there anything I can do for you?"

There was a silence that seemed interminable, and then the guttural voice said slowly, distinctly:

"Thank you. You are very kind. But I am all right. I do not need anything. You vill please excoos me."

It was a dismissal, curt and dismissable, and suddenly I had the queerest feeling of something venomous—menacing—emanating from that closed room. It was as if I had caught a whiff of noxious gas through the keyhole.

"I am glad you are feeling better," I said. "Be sure to let us know if you need anything."

"I vill do dat," she answered haltingly, but I scarcely heard her, for I was almost running toward the staircase, so strong upon me was the impulse for flight.

Mary was at the door of her own room when I reached the third floor, and I noticed with a continuation of my unreasoning panic that her door was so near the stairway as to make it easy for any spying person to keep a surreptitious eye upon her comings and goings. Suddenly I made a resolution, ridiculous on the surface, but imperative to me held as I was in the grip of a psychic conviction that there was something menacing to Mary in the inordinate curiosity of the fourth-floor lodger. I would equip Mary's door with a new spring lock, to which I myself would have a duplicate key, and every night before I slept, I would slip in to see that the child—for she was nothing more—was safely in bed and asleep.

But I tried to let nothing of my panic show to Mary as she turned around from her door, key in hand.

"Well!" she said, smiling.

"You were right," I acknowledged with an attempt at a gay little salute as I went down the stairs. "It was a waste of time. A word of warning, however, Katie," rattling the dishes ominously. "I am afraid we are late for breakfast."

"I shall fly!" she said, laughing. Then she disappeared into her room while I hurried downstairs to placate Katie.

My little maid was perilously near one of her tantrums. I saw that clearly as I entered the kitchenet and found her gloomily contemplating a pan of muffins. I needed no explanation. Katie is justly proud of her muffins, but she insists if they are to do her credit, they must be eaten as soon as she takes them from the oven, and upon muffin morning the breakfast hour is rigidly enforced. She looked up as I entered, and pointed tragically to the pan.

"Look at dose muffins all spoiled, not run fit to eat, und I vork so-o hard by dem."

Roberta Risks It

BY MARGARET CAMERON

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

Meanwhile, events necessarily beyond the ken of Roberta and Piggy had taken place in New York, and her father's presence in New Hampshire was due less to the omniscience with which was at first inclined to credit him than to one of the qualities making him a successful business man. He was a good guesser, and, having decided upon the probable goal of any opponent, it was his policy to arrive there first, if possible. Assuming that anyone was to be taken by surprise, he preferred it to be the other fellow.

His knowledge of Roberta's expected arrival in New York may be regarded as the result of pure chance by those who believe there is any such thing.

Four days before Piggy was sent to meet Roberta at the station, while Scott's mind was chiefly engaged with business, a friend from Montreal had called upon him unexpectedly at his office. Scott invited the man to dine that night at his club, explaining that his family was in the country.

"Have they come back?" the other asked, with surprise. "I saw Mrs. Scott and Miss Celia in London in June, and they said they were going to Italy later and wouldn't be home until Christmas."

"Um—yes—that was the plan. But Celia had a bad nervous breakdown. I had to go over and bring her home."

"Nothing serious, I hope?"

"No. It's persistent. But not serious. If we keep her quiet enough—long enough—she'll come around all right."

"Probably that's the reason her sister's coming home, then," said the Montreal man, who knew nothing about the family breach.

"What's that?" Scott's tone was sharp.

"Am I giving away a secret? Perhaps she meant to surprise you."

"Perhaps she did. It's a way she has. What makes you think she's coming back?"

"I saw her in the steamship office buying a ticket the day before I sailed. I came on the last ship to Quebec myself, and heard her ask for a cabin on the next one."

"Sure it was Roberta?"

"Why—I thought so. I never saw her but once before. I didn't speak to her, because I was in a great hurry, and I don't think she recognized me. I may have been mistaken. Anyway, I'm sorry if I've spoiled her plan."

"No harm done. If she is coming, I'm glad to know it," an equivocal statement producing the desired effect upon the mind of the Canadian.

In his morning mail, the day after the Canadian's revelation, Scott found a notification from one of his numerous henchman that Clifford Nixon, the young manager of a Cleveland company manufacturing automobile engines, was in New York, and his mind leaped to the solution of a simple equation wherein two and two added up to fifty per cent; or algebracily stated a plus b equaled half the sum of x. Nixon had been one of Roberta's suitors from the time she left school, and she had repeatedly refused him. In fact, her obduracy in this matter had been one of several factors in her final break with her father, who had regarded the young man with something more than favor. Ergo: Roberta being due in New York in three days, Nixon appeared, certainly to meet her, probably to propose to her again, possibly to add and abet her in an attempt to remove Celia from the proper and ordained jurisdiction of her natural guardian.

Scott's most distinctive trait was an egostitic pride. Ruling men with a heavy hand, it irked him sore that his most formidable foes should be they of his own household, and a mere girl at that. Inwardly still raw and embittered by Roberta's successful revolt, he was determined to nip Celia's unfilial defection in the bud. And while he never admitted it even to himself, he was a little afraid of his elder daughter.

Temporarily dismissing all other claims upon his attention, he went into secret session with himself, from which he emerged after half an hour or so to order his secretary to telephone a message to Clifford Nixon's club that Mr. Scott wished to see him immediately on important business and to cancel any other appointment for an hour when Nixon could be home.

During the afternoon the young man accordingly presented himself, wondering, and was at once admitted to the Presence. His wonder, however, was short-lived.

"Hello, Cliff," said Scott. "So you've come to meet Roberta."

The other, taken aback, hesitated a second before replying. "Is Roberta coming?"

"You know damn well she is." Her father thrust out his heavy chin, his small, dark eyes gleaming. "You're here to meet her."

"Well, what if I am?" A note of defiance colored Nixon's tone.

"Nothing. That's your affair. Going to propose to her again?"

"No. I'm going to marry her."

"The devil you are! Got tired bucking the world, has she? Finds it isn't such a snap as she thought. Well, I don't envy you or your job. All I've got to say about it is this: There's a certain situation which you may or may not know about, in which she's likely to try to take a hand. If she does there's going to be trouble, so you'd better see that she doesn't."

"I don't recognize your right to dictate—"

"Don't eh? Well, you will. Just to show you that it's not a bluff, I'll tell you now that I own a large interest in our concern. My name doesn't appear on our books—stock's held by dummies. When you formed your company four years ago I thought you might marry Roberta, and I wanted a finger in the pie. I've still got it. I can make it hot for you if I want to, and if you or anybody connected with you tries to mix up in my private affairs I'll do it! That's one thing I won't stand from anybody. Now marry her if you want to. She's no daughter of mine. But if you know what side your bread's buttered on, you'll see to it that she lets me and my family alone. Think it over—and don't talk back," he added, as Nixon, recovering a little from the first impact threw up his head and opened his lips. "I've got you where the hair's short and you want to watch your step. Business is business, and you're doing well. I'm not likely to interfere with you as long as you don't interfere with me." He pressed a button on his desk. "If you do—look out. That's all I have to say now. Tell Mr. Norris to come in," he commanded, as a girl opened the door. "Good-by Cliff. Think it over."

Nixon walked out with his head in a whirl.

IN DAYS OF OUR FOREFATHERS

Women Prepared Their Own Medicines

The wise pioneer women learned to gather, in woods and fields, the remedies the Indians used. From the rafters of colonial houses, hung great bunches of dried roots and herbs. From these, in times of sickness, the busy mother brewed simple and powerful remedies.

From roots and herbs, Lydia E. Pinkham, a descendant of these sturdy pioneers, made her Vegetable Compound. The beneficial effects of this dependable medicine are vouched for by hundreds of women who tell of returning health and energy.

Mrs. Wm. Kraft of 2838 Vinewood Ave., Detroit, Mich., saw a Pinkham advertisement in the "News" one day and made up her mind that she would give the Compound a trial. At that time she was very weak. "After the first bottle," she writes, "I began to feel better and like a new woman after taking six bottles. I recommend it to others and always keep a bottle in the house."

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

NOW DRIVE THE CAR!

Only those who have driven a Dodge Brothers Special Sedan—or any Dodge Brothers car BUILT RECENTLY—can fully appreciate all that Dodge Brothers have accomplished during the past few months.

So swiftly has improvement followed improvement, that today the car, to all intents and purposes, is a different and incomparably finer vehicle.

The announcement of smart new body lines and attractive color combinations first attracted general favor. But since then, improvements even more fundamental have been accomplished mechanically.

Drive the car NOW! Observe its impressive new silence, smoothness and elasticity of performance, and you will then begin to realize just how vital and varied these and other later improvements actually are.

FOURTEEN MAY GIVE TESTIMONY IN CONTROVERSY

Signify Intentions of Appearing at Trial Over White Oaks-Rd Crossing

Fourteen persons today signified their intentions of testifying in the hearing of the action of Marion County Commissioners against the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. on a dispute concerning the White Oaks-rd crossing in Pleasant Township.

William F. Martin and others have petitioned for the extension of the White Oaks-rd from the farm of John R. Courtney in Pleasant Township, to the Prospect-rd, a distance of a half mile. In order to reach the Prospect-rd, the extension must cross the C., D. & M. tracks.

At present the county commissioners are powerless to continue in the construction of the road because of an injunction issued by court in favor of the C., D. & M.

Four-Year Dispute

The crossing dispute has been under way for more than four years, the extension first being petitioned for in June, 1922.

The hearing is being held before Judge Charles M. Justice of the Common Pleas Court. No decision had been reached at noon today.

Seeks Judgment

Asking for a judgment of $1,340.92 against The Marion Packing Co., the Erie Railroad Co. today filed action in Common Pleas Court to recover that amount.

The company asserts that the money is due on freight charges, accumulated during the summer months.

The local packing company made use of iced cars of the Erie Railroad Co. to ship their products to the J. W. Jones & Son Co. of Youngstown, according to the petition, and has failed to pay the charges assessed.

Freight charges amounted to $92.40 for each car and the Marion Packing Co. made use of 38 cars, assessments on the shipments amounting to $3,511.22, the Erie Railroad Co. claims.

A sum of $2,170.28 has been paid to the railroad company, leaving a total of $1,340.92 due on freight charges, the petition sets up.

Get License

A marriage license was issued late yesterday to Andrew V. Jones, 26, LeRue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Jones, and Miss Wave L. Carey, 24, LaRue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin D Carey.

Files Appeal Action

The Credit Loan & Discount Co. of this city today filed an appeal action from Magistrate Joseph M. Justice's court asking for a judgment of $99.50 against R. L. and L. E. Cochran, of Marion. The amount is claimed due on a promissory note.

Hearing Scheduled

The foreclosure suit of S. W. Fields against Elmer J. Knause is scheduled for hearing this afternoon before Judge Charles L. Justice.

Real Estate Transfers

Henry H. Hartman to Philip H Hartman, lot in Morral, $1.

Charles G. Debler to John G. Oebler, 153.5 acres in Green Camp Township.

William Wilson to Harry Heitzman and others, lot in Marion, $1.

HULSE RESIGNATION IS ACCEPTED BY BOARDS

Miss Gertrude Tumbleson Elevated to Position of Manager of Rating Company

Resignation of Guy H. Hulse as secretary of both organizations was accepted at a joint meeting of directors of the Marion Retail Merchants' Bureau and the Marion Credit Rating Co. last night at the bureau office.

Mr. Hulse, who has served as executive head of the Marion Retail Merchants' Bureau for seven years and secretary of the other organization since its incorporation in 1922, will leave Nov. 1, to become national field secretary of the Service Exchange Division of the National Association of Rotail Credit Men, St. Louis, Mo.

John Jenner, president of the board of directors of the Credit Rating company, announced that a number of applications had been received to succeed Mr. Hulse.

Important Body

He pointed out that the selection of a successor must be preceded by careful consideration of the qualifications of each applicant in order to obtain a person, who will measure up to the work of the department. He further pointed out that the Credit Rating department is a very important organization from the standpoint of retail merchandising in Marion.

In order not to impair the service given merchants by the Credit Rating company Gertrude Tumbleson, who has served as assistant manager of the company during the last four years, in full charge of credit rating files, has been advanced to the position of manager.

K. E. Fields, who has been with the organization since its beginning, and is thoroughly acquainted with retail activity, has been advanced to the position as secretary of the Retail Merchants' Bureau.

In the mean time the canvassing committee will give due consideration to all applications filed, it was announced at a the meeting.

J. E. CHAMBERS CO. OPENS IN NEW GARAGE QUARTERS

Company Leases Baldauf Building, N. Main-St, for Sales and Service

The J. E. Chambers Co., handling all models of Chysler cars, today is holding a grand opening of their new home, 151 N. Main-st.

The Chambers Co. has leased the entire Baldauf Building for its new sales and service.

For the last few months, the Chambers Co. has occupied only the second floor of the building while the City Market held a place on the main floor. The new lease of the Chrysler representatives took effect Oct. 1. The City Market is now located at 135 Mill st.

The forepart of the building will be used as show room and office quarters. The rear portion of the main floor will be the service department. The second floor will be used for storage.

The new Chrysler models are now on display in the new rooms.

New Express Platform Will Eliminate Present Delays Rail Officials Declare

Unusual Amount of Express Goods for Marion and Vicinity Carried from Eastern States on Train No. 13, Survey Shows

The new platform of the American Railway Express Co., being constructed along the third track of the Erie Railroad on the north side of the local Union Station, will eliminate present unavoidable delays and speed up both freight and passenger traffic through Marion, officials announced today.

The new platform, measuring about eight feet in width and 100 feet in length, will be used by the American Railway Express Co. in unloading goods from Erie Train No. 13, a through passenger and express train from New York to Chicago.

Express Traffic

An unusual amount of express goods for Marion and vicinity is carried from the eastern states to this city on Train 13 and a present, with the rain standing on the main track while unloading, other through traffic is held up. On many occasions, it is said, the train has been forced to move before all Marion packages were removed.

With the construction of the new platforms, the through New York and Chicago train will be switched onto the third track for unloading purposes, thus avoiding the interference with other through freight and passenger trains.

Yanks Through Here

The New York Yankees journeyed back to their home town via Marion over the Big Four Railroad early yesterday morning. The train passed through Marion about 3:30 a. m.

A second train, carrying Judge Landis, the czar of baseball, and a host of sport writers, together with umpires of the World Series, made the run through this city a few minutes later.

The Cardinals returned to New York over the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Goes to California

L. E. Nehergall, local ticket agent, left last night for California, where he will attend various meetings of ticket agents in different California cities for the next few weeks.

Rail Briefs

Train No. 8 on the Erie Railroad yesterday carried an extra coach occupied by Chinese laborers.

G. T. Depew of the Erie Railroad was in Marion yesterday, a visitor in the office of the chief train dispatcher.

J. D. Sutton, third trick telegraph operator of the Erie, is confined to his home because of illness. H. L. Hall is relieving him at the telegraph key.

Frank "Ducky" Drake, a student at Ohio University, Athens, is spending the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. "Bill" Drake. "Bill" is a telegraph operator for the Erie here.

Erie Railroad gangs have been busy during the last few days repairing crossings in Marion and vicinity before the winter months and cold weather arrive. Crossings at Oakes, Main-st, Stanley, and Prospect-st, are among those given the finishing touches during the last week.

Is your town growing? Big Four is growing too.

Seven million dollars is being spent this year by the BIG FOUR for new work, such as double tracking, freight yards, engine terminals, automatic signals and train control.

These heavy expenditures, which are part of a continuous program of improvements, not only enable us to give better service, but help to promote prosperity along our rails. The greater part of this money is spent for labor and materials in BIG FOUR communities.

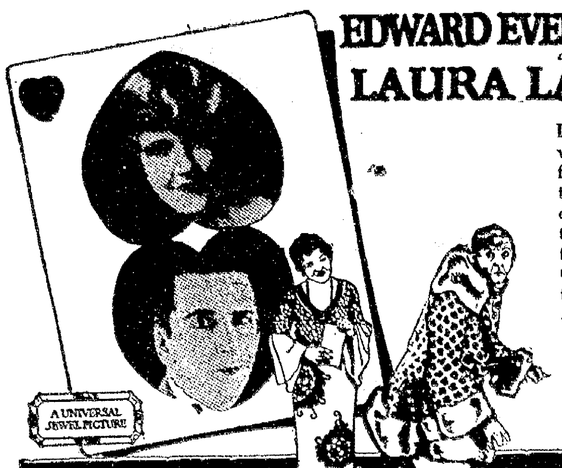

In addition to these outlays for roadway and structures, BIG FOUR is making large expenditures for new locomotives and cars. Our total investment in road and equipment is now upwards of $290,000,000, and is growing larger each year.

The BIG FOUR ROUTE grows with the communities it serves.

Missionary Meet

The first part of the afternoon session on Friday was in charge of the Woman's Missionary Society, with the Association President, Mrs. Wagner, in charge. After devotionals, a rollcall of all the Missionary Societies in the District, and awarding of the banner for largest attendance, which was won by Trinity, Marion Society. A business session followed after which Miss Ruth Mather, a Missionary from East China gave an interesting address, telling of her work there in a girls' school. Special music for this session were solos by Miss Harvey of West Mansfield, Mrs. H. A. Tower, of Trinity Church, Marion and Mrs. Edith Spidell of Columbus, but a member of the Prospect Church. At 3 50 p. m. the Moderator again called the Association to order, and after announcements, Rev. Harry Manning of West Mansfield offered prayer. Then a business session. Rev. C. H. Stull of Granville, and the Ohio Superintendent of Evangelism gave an address. At the noon and evening hours, the Prospect Baptist ladies served delicious meals

Young People's Meet

The climax came last night, with the Young People's Rally, with a crowded house. Rev. Holliday of Marion, presiding. An orchestra from the Radnor Baptist Chruch furnished some fine music. Rev. Y. H. F. Reed of Radnor offered prayer. In the absence of Wilson A. Holmes whose name appeared on the program for an address Miss Ruth Mather again addressed the audience, her subject being "Young People in Training for Leadership. At this time the roll was called of the Young People's Unions present.

Mrs. Edith Spidell and Mrs. Rena Kyle, sang a duet. Rev. Frank G. Savers, of Hamilton, O., delighted the audience with his fine address, "What Will the World Be Like in 1950?" After some announcements by the Moderator, and the giving of the gavel to the new Moderator, Rev. Reed, and a few well chosen remarks as to his purpose for the new year's work, the audience sang "On to Victory" and Rev. Davis pronounced the benediction.

OHIO NORTHERN SECURES GIFT FOR BUILDING

$100,000 Music Hall To Be Erected from Presser Foundation Fund

Kenton, Oct 9—Promise of a $100,000 music building for Ohio Northern University at Ada, to be known as the "Theodore Presser Building," was secured from Dr. James Frances Cook, New York, president of the Presser Foundation, by Dr Albert Edwin Smith, Northern president, on his recent trip to the Eastern city

"Ohio Northern is the first on a list of 75 colleges in line for aid," Dr. Smith quotes Dr. Cook as saying.

The entire estate of the late Theodore Presser, wealthy music publisher and publisher of the "Etude" magazine will be converted into a foundation for the advancement of music study when the estate is closed.

Theodore Presser started his music career at Ohio Northern back in 1869. He was the first music teacher in the history of the shool, and it was his two years in Ada that led him to follow a music career.

"The estate will soon be settled and we hope to start building within a year," Dr. Smith said.

Meeker Given Its Second Prosperous Era by Tourist Traffic on Harding Highway

Marion County Village Known by Three Different Names Since Founding

BY GILMORE HIETT

State Editor, The Star

A FEW miles east of the Hardin-Marion County line is Meeker, the village of many names, whose residents claim that the Harding Highway, which passes through the town and serves as the main street, is alone responsible for the most flourishing business era that the community has enjoyed since those days, many years ago, when saloons operated in Ohio by paying a very low liquor tax.

A year or two more than a century ago, someone founded the village and gave it the name of Scottown and thus it remained until the founder's great grandchildren along with other citizens, were informed by the United States Postal Department that they were to be served by a postoffice bearing the name of Cochranton. The name had its faults as the village legendry has it There seemed to be a general consensus of opinion among all that had to with the mail that Cochranton, Cochranton, Pa., and Coshocton, O., were all one and the same. When the noise of resultant protestations had died away, both village and postoffice bore the name of Meeker, taken from that of the promoter of a traction line that was routed through the village but which never materialized. The last change of name was made nearly 20 years ago and the village has been Meeker since.

Two Prosperous Eras

In all its history, Meeker has never boasted a population that exceeded 150. It has had two eras of flourishing business, as it stated above. The first was back in the years before the $1,000 liquor sale tax law in Ohio, the second is now being enjoyed, its beginning being incidental with the opening of the Harding Highway.

The two saloons at Scottown, as the village was then called, drew patronage for miles around and before the day of opening and closing regulations, the lights burned brightly in the two places far into the night. Business receipts, however, were not large enough to pay the high taxes and still permit the management to prosper and the saloons were eventually closed, bringing an end to the first colorful period of the village's existence.

For the Tourist

The second period finds the entire business atmosphere of Meeker changed. There are two general stores and one hardware store in operation. All three places have filing stations and lunchcounters in connection. Newly painted business fronts are adorned in elaborate fashion advertising this or that particular brand of merchandise with thought of attracting trade from the never ending stream of traffic passing through on the Harding highway. Curb service, free air and water, accessories and parts are just a few of the many services that Mr. Motorist from hither and yon finds here for his especial accommodation.

In conversation recently, a Meeker business man confided that at least 25 per cent of his store's business was gleaned from the traffic stream. He has found it advisable to give a goodly section of his store interior over to a refreshment dispensary forcing the dry goods and notions further back in the room. His fellow business man have adopted similar policie Remembering that the automobile maintains its functioning powers at night as well as in daytime, the storekeepers operate their businesses on an average of 20 hours a day, opening at six o'clock in the morning and closing in the early hours of the next day

Picturesque Village

There is a certain picturesqueness about Meeker that the ordinary rural village does not possess. There is long "S" curve lined with white guard rails on the Harding Highway as it enters from the west that finds its termination at a concrete bridge over the Pymochtee river at the very beginning of the town. The east boundary line is graced by the Montgomery Rural Centralized School building, a fine red brick structure which serves the village and the surrounding school districts.

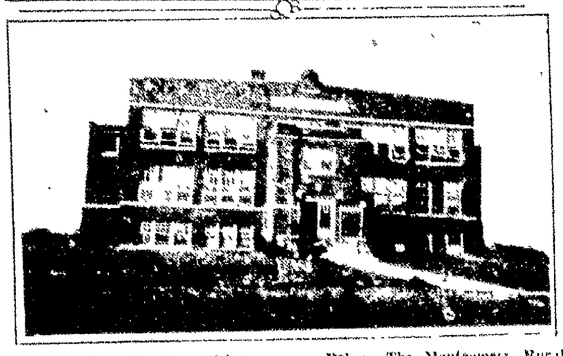

The school was dedicated early in 1921, being erected at a cost of $80,000. It is modernly equipped, having class and study halls, offices, laboratories and an auditorium capable of seating 500 persons. It is situated on a large and beautiful campus. The section in the rear of the building being used for a recreational ground. Workmen are now engaged in preparing a diamond for the use of the school's baseball team. All elementary and high school grades are taught by a faculty of seven teachers.

School diversions are offered in athletics, public speaking, debating, music and dramatics. The enrollment of students total near 300.

Since the new building has been in use, the old school house, located in the west part of the village and said to be near 100 years old, has been brought into use as a community hall. All social functions and meetings of community interest are held in this room

The Methodist Episcopal Church is the only one serving the villagers. It is located near the west boundary of the village and the pulpit is occupied by a circuit pastor.

FINED $250 AND COSTS FOR POSSESSION OF BOOZE

Kenton, Oct. 9 Roy Hampton, Alger, arrested on a charge of illegal possession following the finding of sixty-five gallons of alleged liquor hidden away on his farm, was found guilty when arraigned before Mayor J. M. Johnson of Alger, yesterday, and fined $250 and costs. He was released following payment.

Although Hampton did not divulge the source of the bootleg, he insisted that he did not manufacture it, officials said

The arrest of the Hardin county farmer on the liquor charge, occurred when Kenton, Hardin county and Alger officials called at the Hampton farm to arrest him on charges of assault and battery. He was intoxicated at the time, officials said, and the thorough search of the premises was made.

Peculiar arrangements of old fodder near the barn led to the finding of the liquor cache three feet under ground

FIRST LYCEUM NUMBER GIVEN AT MT. GILEAD

Brooks Fletcher To Speak at Opera House Tuesday Night

Mt Gilead, Oct 9 The Allpress Art Star Musical Company gave an instrumental concert in the Opera House last night, appearing as the opening number of the American Legion winter lyceum course.

Leo Ault, in presenting the company stated that indications were that the patronage would be sufficient to meet the cost of the course. He however urged patrons to help the Legion to sell the unsold tickets and fill the house for the remaining numbers.

Mr. Ault announced that Brooks Fletcher, congressman from this district, would deliver a lecture at the Opera House Tuesday evening October 12. Mrs. Fletcher will assist in the evenings program. The entire proceeds from the evening will be given over to the American Legion. It was stated that the price of admission would be kept low in order that no one, old or young, would be denied the privilege of hearing Mr. Fletcher

The program last night was well balanced throughout and pleased the large audience. The concert consisted of classical numbers, opening with a Russian overture. Violin solos and cello numbers added variety to the program.

The concert reached a dramatic climax with the closing number which was a composition of national anthems, folk songs, a number of old tunes, culminating with a selection of war tunes, and reaching a climax with the national anthem

TWO NOTED SINGERS ON ATWATER KENT PROGRAM

Louise Hunter, Soprano, and Clarence Whitehill, Baritone, To Be Featured

The second of the winter season of Atwater Kent Radio Hours will bring to thousands of music lovers on Sunday night, the voices of Louise Hunter, soprano, and Clarence Whitehall, baritone, both well-known through their connection with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

The program, an hour in length, will be heard beginning at 9:15 o'clock through WEAF, WTAM, WWJ, WSAI, WEEI, WGR, WGN, WCCO, KSD, WJAR, WTAG, WXAE, WFI and WOC.

Miss Hunter is one of the youngest members of the Metropolitan Company, formerly starred in the light opera field and met with great success while filling the role of "Yum Yum" in "The Mikado."

Mr. Whitehill is an operatic star of world-wide fame and is considered one of the leading American baritones.

The program Sunday night includes any well-known selections. The various numbers will be sung with accompaniment by the Atwater Kent orchestra.

Many Marion Radio Fans Getting "Sets" Ready for Winter Fireside Concerts

Sales Recorded in Last Few Months Show That City Has Many "Listeners in"; Many New Stations To Broadcast This Season

BY EDWIN SCHOENLEB
Radio Editor

... gone. Radio weather has ...

... of Marion radio fans have ... their aerials, looking over ... examining tubes, and ... a general "once over" as ... weather arrives.

... of every nature have been ... by local radio dealers and the ... sales recorded during the ... weeks disclose the fact that ... the home of many "listeners ...

... new stations have greeted the ... radio audience this season but ... of fans continue to tune ... principally on the established pioneer ... homes of the radio world. ... the last few days and nights, Marion listeners have experienced their ... honest-to-goodness radio ... and have thoroughly enjoyed ...

All Have Favorites

All have their favorite stations and entertainers and all are well aware of the fact that several of their favorites ... last year are hard to find this season while others are received much more clearly than at the close of 1925-26 season.

The four Ohio stations gaining popularity among Marion radio fans include WSAI and WLW, Cincinnati, WAIU, Columbus WTAM, Cleveland. Of these, Cleveland, although more difficult to connect with, presents the most popular programs, in the estimation of local persons.

Last radio season, the invisible audience had the privilege of tuning in on two Cleveland stations, WEAR and WTAM. At that time, WTAM was by far the most popular because reception was much clearer. As the radio season closed, WEAR, owned and operated by the Goodrich Rubber Co. of Akron, was sold to WTAM, owned and operated by the Willard Storage Battery Co. The two stations were combined and the WEAR transmitting outfit was placed into use, almost ruining the Cleveland reception during the summer months in many persons' estimation.

WTAM Program

Now, as the winter season again opens, WTAM is offering splendid programs, including the New York chain entertainments, and is being received in a manner considered "fair."

WSAI, the United States Playing Card Co., Cincinnati, is another of the most popular stations of Marion listeners. Although at times, reception is rather blurred, entertainment from this station as a rule is easily heard and enjoyed in Marion. WSAI features the programs from the New York studio, usually followed by a brief popular bill.

WLW, the Crosley Radio Corporation of Cincinnati, with its Crosley Burnt Corkers, "Pink of Programs," Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and Castle Farmers, to say nothing of the comical Senator Schultz, has long since won a place in every radio home of Marion.

Promises Variety

The Cincinnati station is now operating under greater power than ever before and has promised programs of variety for the coming season.

Columbus stations are fairly popular in this city and are easily heard but rank behind the three other Ohio stations in popularity.

Other stations heard frequently in Marion homes are WJZ, New York; WGY, Schenectady; WSB, Atlanta; WSMB, New Orleans; WSM, Nashville; WWJ, Detroit; WJR, Pontiac; WEAF, New York; KOA, Denver; WOS, Davenport; WPG, Atlantic City; and WHT, Chicago. Although KDKA, Pittsburgh, the pioneer station of America, has proven popular with a few Marion radio fans, the majority complain about fading troubles.

WJZ Popular

WJZ, New York, is probably the most popular station for "the best" dance music in the country. Every night at 9:30, one of the greatest dance orchestras of the East is heard in an hour's concert through the New York station. Among the listed number are George Olsen and his music, Harold Leonard and his Waldorf-Astoria Orchestra, and Jack Denny's Frivolity Orchestra.

In addition, WJZ presents some of the most famous speakers of the country on various occasions, together with classical instrumental and vocal music. Marion fans have no difficulty in tuning in on this powerful broadcasting station and delight in the varied programs.

Programs from the studio of WEAF, New York, are heard every night by the Marion radio audiences but on few occasions are the entertainments received directly from the huge and powerful New York transmitting outfit.

Uses Chain Stations

During the last year, the New York studio, connected with many other prominent stations of this country by means of a system of telephone wires, has furnished entertainment to millions in all parts of the United States.

Local residents have received the regular programs from New York through WTAM, WWJ and WSAI.

WEAF plans to continue the entertainments during the coming season and will operate through the chain stations.

Principal Southern stations received in Marion are WSB, Atlanta, WSMB, New Orleans, and WSM, Nashville. Although WLW, Cincinnati, at times interferes with the Atlanta programs, many persons find little difficulty in tuning in on the station with the famous announcer whose southern brogue is known in all corners of the United States.

Western Stations

Western stations heard most frequently are KOA, Denver, and WOC, Davenport. Few local persons claim reception of Los Angeles entertainments or programs from Oregon, although after 11 o'clock at night, these stations are sometimes easily heard, providing weather conditions are extremely favorable.

For those who insist on staying up with their radio until the early hours of the morning, WJR, Pontiac, with the "Jewett Jesters," and WDAF, Kansas City, with the Nighthawk Frolic, will prove popular this winter. WITT, Wrigley Building, Chicago, provides organ music until one o'clock every night, while on Thursdays only, beginning at 12:15, the Crosley Night Howls from WLW, Cincinnati, may be heard.

Thus, upon making a survey of the city, we find that, although there are hundreds of stations ranging from 10 to 1,500 watts in operation, the majority of radio fans have a certain small number of favorites to which they listen when they wish real entertainment.

At other times, when they are only "fishing" for long distance stations or conducting a contest in the number of cities heard on a certain night, radio owners may tune in on as high as 100 stations in a single night.

A NEW and different kind of radio reception awaits everyone this Fall. Those who felt "all thumbs" before . . . have expert assurance now . . . Station after station appears like magic . . . By two easy dials . . . in spectacular succession. The performance of an expert . . . this may seem to some . . . But now! Everyone gets these results, thanks to a new discovery. Squeals and howls . . . they exist no longer . . . Selectivity separates stations with scissor-like sharpness . . no more fuzziness or distortion. You will, of course, want to know all about this new marvel of radio.

Scientists Discover New Principle

Scientists made a discovery. Erla engineers, collaborating with the distinguished staff of the Radio Frequency Laboratories, have done what they term "erasing regeneration" . . . the cause of squeals, howls and distortion. Manufacturers have often sought to eliminate it. But never succeeded except by sacrificing distance and volume—too great a penalty. Now regeneration is banished . . . but without loss. There is an actual gain in reception.

No wonder the new Erla (RFL) is considered a year ahead. Few now will be satisfied with old-fashioned receivers—especially when the improved Erla (RFL) may be purchased so very reasonably.

Beauty Unrivaled—Value Unapproached

Compilation of Season's Records Backs Marion's Claim to Championship

BY PAT MURPHY

WHILE statistics are as distasteful to us as they are to our readers, we know of no other way to prove the claim of the Marion Athletics that they are the semi-professional champions of Ohio. As we told in an [illegible] last week, the Athletics won 23 while losing three games this last season. Since then they have added one to the "won" column, giving them an average of .869. Look over the average of the St. Louis Cards and the New York Yanks and see why we are within the bounds of reason in claiming the state championship for the Athletics.

We are reprinting here the score by innings of the games played by the Athletics this season, and have been authorized by Manager Francis Bacon, backed by the baseball committee of the Marion Athletic Association, to state challenge the Lima Independents to come here and play a return game for the defeat handed the local team on July 4 for the championship.

We have dwelt in this resume more on the batting averages than on any other department of the game. Space would not permit us to go into the merits of each individual player as it should be handled. Batting is what the average fan is most interested in. Therefore, we have endeavored to bring out the batting point to the [illegible] of the other phases of [illegible].

Team's Batting Average .258

For the season, including the batting average of every player who has appeared in a Marion uniform, the team shows an average with the stock of .258. Taking the twelve players who could be classed as regulars, the team average is .348, a remarkable record.

Manager Bacon showed the way to his teammates with an average for the season of .[illegible] for 27 games. He was followed by Joe Conroy, who was converted [illegible] in the season from a [illegible] good first baseman, with [illegible] 22 games.

Then came Buckland [illegible] forced to quit when the [illegible] nearly finished, by [illegible] with .438 for 21 games.

Brashear, catcher, [illegible] a bad slump with the [illegible] late games, was still able [illegible] with an average of .3[illegible] 15 games.

Price, who dropped two fly [illegible] all season, and those two [illegible] which no outfielder except Price [illegible] Tris Speaker would try to [illegible], finished with a batting average of .320 for 27 games.

Colegrove, who started the season as a pitcher, but was converted into an outfielder, proved that some hits could be had from the [illegible] side of the plate. In 21 games in the box, at first, and in right and left fields, Colegrove gathered an average of .320 for the season.

Donaldson Goes to Newark

Donaldson, who will probably wear the [illegible] of the Newark Internationals [illegible] season, made more errors than any two other players on the team, 17, but Rex goes after balls that the average shortstop would "high-hat." About as big as a half pint of [illegible] this little fellow covers more ground than any shortstop who has ever been seen in these parts. His 17 errors represent about 17 almost impossible chances and the inexorable scoring rules are to blame for his poor fielding average. The man who does not go after the hard ones makes few errors. Rex's batting average for 26 games is .325.

Main Does Good Work

Main, the pitcher who has been depended upon to win most of Marion's games this year, sports a batting average of .287 for 21 games. He played part of a game in right field. He did not make a Babe Ruth record at bat, but he did put several of his own games on ice by making hits with men on bases scoring runs.

Cardinal Defense Weakens and Yanks are Favorites

"One-Game" Alexander Will Start Against Shawkey or Shocker in Sixth at N. Y.

Rogers Hornsby and His Boys Will Need Every Break They Can Get with Ray Blades and Taylor Douthit Out of the Pastures

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—Fate, the grim arbiter of all things mortal, will don the sombre robes of the judiciary this afternoon, view the evidence strictly on its merits and then, with the sardonic smirk of a born mountebank, decide the probable outcome of the world series by the logical expedient of tossing a two-headed coin.

For that is fate's fantastic way and its slightest favor is worth far more than a base hit in a pinch.

Before nightfall, the darling of its momentary fancy will be known to all and if it should happen to be the Yankees, the 1926 world's series will have passed into the great beyond and New York will have its first world champion in three years. If it should happen to be the St. Louis Cardinals, the series will go into another tie at three-all and a seventh and final game tomorrow will be necessary.

That would prove a source of great irritation to the club owners, but, if the Cardinals win today, it simply will have to be. Life, you know, is just a lesson in self-denial and it's about time these club owners realized it.

It was not worth a bit less than ninety-nine cents against the even dollar that the Cards wouldn't carry the situation to its ulimate limit. They had Grover Cleveland Alexander, the man who stood the Yanks on their frantic brow no later than last Sunday, primed to take another whirl at the boys this afternoon and it was ordained that, if Alex could show a 60 per cent return on his first performance, the Yanks will do well if they don't finish worse than second.

However, there happened to be an impression abroad that Alexander was a one-game pitcher. Just what was meant by that I can not say, but I assume that reference was being made to one game a week. Alex was just about starting on a new week today.

Call Shawkey or Shocker

The opposing pitcher probably will be Bob Shawkey, who is as elderly as Alexander, but not as good. Urban Shocker, beaten in the second game of the series, was another possibility. It really didn't seem to matter as long as anyone could guarantee that Alexander would be the man he was. If he isn't, it really won't matter, either, for the Yanks can beat any second class man, no matter whom they pitch themselves.

As for that, the bright thinkers appeared to feel that the rest of the series was just a formality after the Yanks fluked out that final St. Louis game. Natural odds of 2 to 1 were being offered today that they couldn't go wrong, but the acceptances were few, if any.

Still New York seemed to be taking the matter with great seriousness. The usual all-night vigil at the bleacher gates was preserved with considerable skill and ability. So was the open field running of the Yankee office staff through the ranks of hopeful gents who wish to buy tickets that are non-existant.

But these incidents were formalities. New York really meant to step out of character today, shed its garment of artificial ennui and become a true Rotarian. It meant to beat St. Louis on the ball field and it wasn't the kind of town to let a rival know about it down in the matter of demonstrations. They were going to sing at the boys today.

Breaks May Not Come

And the Cards will need every break they can get, even of the ocular and auditory breed. With Ray Blades out for the entire series and Taylor Douthit unavailable, the remainder of the way, the outfielding in St. Louis on Thursday was not exactly inspiring and even a great pitcher like Alexander may find that his best efforts will be wasted on the outfield air. It was so with Bill Sherdel on Thursday: it may be so with Alex today. The Cards have taken the bad breaks right on the chin thus far, but the worst they got was when they lost two fine outfielders, one of them before the start of a world series and the other in the middle of it.

THREE WESTERN ELEVENS FACE CRUCIAL TESTS

Notre Dame, Minnesota and Wisconsin Have Trouble Ahead

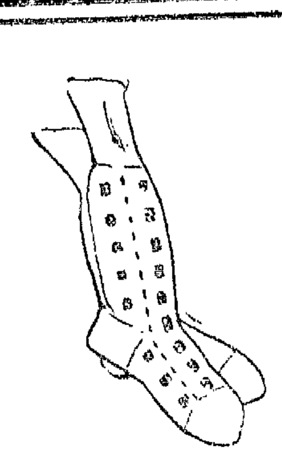

Chicago, Oct. 9—Football history for 1926 was promised a sensation genesis today as some of the mid-western leaders engaged genuine opposition in a sprinkling of headline attractions in the season's second outing.

Crucial tests were in prospect for at least three of the higher rated aggregations in this section. Notre Dame and Minnecosta faced this ordeal against each other at Minneapolis and Wisconsin had tackled more in Kansas than Badger followers were wont to admit.

Minnesota's clash with Notre Dame, in which Rockne's supposedly stronger all-around squad was conceded a slight edge, is easily the most important game of the day. Minnesota is expected to depend upon powerful line and a driving attack to offset the open and running offense Notre Dame flashed last week.

Wisconsin appears to have been grossly over-estimated in pre-season ratings, and has selected no second rate antongonist in Kansas. The fray will be interesting and will engender no great surprise if the Badgers lose, although they were favored in pre-game forecasts. A. A. Stagg, Chicago's singing mentor, will offer a few songs and his new aerial offensive in an inter-sectional game against Maryland here, the only tilt of its species in the Big Ten today. Stagg fears Maryland's driving offensive and has been drilling his squad on new songs throughout the week.

The other games in the Big Ten are all calculated as defeats for the foreign opposition with Michigan against Michigan State at Ann Arbor, Ohio State against Ohio Wesleyan at Columbus, and Iowa against North Dakota, at Iowa City, favorites at impressive odds. Indiana and Kentucky at Bloomington, Purdue and Wabash at Lafayeete, and Illinois and Butler at Urbana, are considered Conference victors by close margins, while Northwestern undoubtedly will swamp Carleton College in the new $1,000,000 stadium at Evanston.

CLEANERS AND SHOW MEN WIN

Star and Y-Indus Teams Outclassed in Industrial League

Anthony's Laundry and the Displaymen's bowling teams won two games each Friday night in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial League matches. The Star and Y-Indus teams went home with only one game each.

After taking the first two games by margins of 93 and 165 points, respectively, the Laundrymen gave the Star the final game by a little margin of three pins as a result of Smith's big score of 75. In the grand totals the Center-st boys had 255 points to the good. The Star had a hard time winning the last game and a number of ringers appeared in the lineup.

High scorers were: Thomas, 221, and Fetter, 208.

Second Game

Displaymen took the second and third games from the Y-Indus Clubmen by margins of 80 and 46 points. Y-Indus men won the second game by 41 points, which cut the Displaymen's margin in the grand totals to only 91 pins.

McFarland was high scorer with 161.

President Francis Bacon of the club is at Oxford today officiating the Ohio Northern-Miami game.

Big Leaguers to Perform Against Athletics Sunday in Inter-City Tournament

Wells Coming with Ashland, Emmer Will Be with Crestline, Chisholm Will Be in Elyria Uniform and Marion Will Play Regular All Stars

SUNDAY'S inter-city tournament at Lincoln Park will bring more players who have made names for themselves in organized basball than have ever been in this city at one time before. And these players from the big show will be pitted against the best team outside of organized leagues in the state, if not in the country.

Ed Wells, who has pitched such good ball with the Detroit Tigers this year, will pitch one of the tournament games for Ashland. Manager George "Toughey" Hamilton of the Ashland team has promised to bring a couple of other major leaguers and three or four men who have been playing in the big minor leagues.

The National League will have at least one representative. Emmer, who played short for the Cincinnati Reds this year, will cover that position for Crestline. Other players from the majors and the American Association and International League will also be with the team from the railroad town.

The Elyria Richwines, the third team in the tourney, will have a strong lineup. They have gone as far away from home as Atlanta to get a catcher, Chisholm, who caught in the South Atlantic League this year. This sterling backstop winters in Elyria, and jumped at the catch to play in the tournament.

Hope has been about abandoned of getting Nick Altrock. Baseball's premier clown is covering the world series for a newspaper syndicate, and has not answered Manager Bacon's latest offer. The first figure Nick put on his services could not be met.

Lots will be drawn for opponents in the first two games. The winners of these games will play off for the tournament honors. Play will start promptly at 1 o'clock, as it is hoped that a definite winner of the tournament will be established. The last tournament held here had to be called with a tie score because of the 6 o'clock Sunday law.

OHIO-MICHIGAN TICKETS SELL

Approximately 60,000 Sold and Only 25,000 More Left

Local football fans are receiving tickets for the Ohio-Michigan game, which is to take place at Ohio Stadium, Nov. 13. Many expect to order next week.

Announcement was made at Ohio State University yesterday that approximately 60,000 tickets have been sold for the game.

With the game only five weeks in the future, less than 25,000 tickets are yet to be sold. The stadium seats 85,000 and is the largest in the Western Conference.

To date about 5,000 students' athletic tickets have been sold. The students' tickets however are good for all athletic events in which Ohio State participates.

JUNIOR INDIANS ARE ORGANIZING

Manager Sheehe Is Scheduling Games for Basketball Team

Marion's junior basketball team, the Indians, are organizing under the management of Captain John Sheehe who is busy scheduling games to be played after Thanksgiving. Games are being scheduled with teams under 16 years of age and not exceeding 135 pounds.

The Indians are scheduled to start practice soon and the following local players have signified their intentions of trying out for the positions named:

Captain John Sheehe, Edward O'Connor and Vincent Faulkner, forwards; Eugene Gunder and Harold Tobin, center; Clifford Hogan, Bernard Redding and Robert O'Connor, guard.

LEADING TEAMS PLAYING TODAY

Opposition Is Strong in Some of Big Contests

New York, Oct. 9—Many of the country's leading football teams will face stiff opposition today.

Although Yale is favored to defeat Georgia in their inter-sectional contest, the southerners have a fast and shifty team. The powerful Holy Cross eleven will endeavor o again humble Harvard's green team and Washington and Lee will take on Princeton.

The outstanding game in the East, however, is the Pittsburgh-Lafayette classic with Pitt still smarting under last year's defeat.

Washington and Jefferson is picked to beat Rutgers and Brown is a slight favorite over Lehigh. Leading inter-sectional contests include the Navy-Richmond, Army-David Elkins, New York University-West Virginia Wesleyan, Dartmouth-Virginia Poly and Syracuse-William and Mary games.

Easy victories for the big teams are expected in the Cornell-Williams, Columbia-Wesleyan and Pennsylvania-Swarthmore clashes.

The outstanding contest in the South is the game between Georgia Tech and Tulane.

DOES SOME SCORING

Adena, O., Oct. 9—Adena High School's football team is believed to have registered the largest score of any high school team playing in Ohio last Saturday. Adena defeated Dension High 74-0 on the local field. The next highest score was 71-0 made by Toledo Waite High against Toledo Woodward. Adena has played two games this season, registering 132 points and holding its opponents scoreless.

Some men ought to be thankful that the world doesn't understand them.

Houghton and Lewis Stars Crippled; May Not Start Findlay Non-League Game

Bucyrus Visiting Delaware, Galion Receives Warm Welcome at Mansfield, Ashland and Shelby Playing Practice Games at Home; McDowell High Here Next Saturday

CRIPPLED and still mouring the loss of their first North Central Ohio League game 6 to 0 to Galion here one week ago, Harding High left early this afternoon for Findlay where Coach Paul Sprout's eleven is scheduled to play a non-league game with Findlay High.

Little information has been received from Findlay.

Left half Edward Houghton still is suffering a dislocated shoulder. He was injured in the Galion game here a week ago.

Right end Edwin Lewis is also out of the Harding lineup with a bad shoulder. He was injured in practice this week and will not be likely to start today's game.

One week from today McDowell High will be here from Ashland.

Ashland yesterday lost to New London, 12 to 7. Last week Ashland went to Delaware and played a good scoreless game. After the contest, Delaware's newspaper story was to the effect that the downstaters held Ashland scoreless. Since that time they have had nothing to say regarding their game with the Bucyrus eleven, at Delaware today.

Bucyrus at Delaware

Bucyrus, however, should have easy picking even though they lost 7 to 16 one week ago to Coach J. Russell Murphy's big Red and White delegation.

Bucyrus looks like a winning team this year and indications to date are to the effect that they will be finishing somewhere near Mansfield. Shelby and Harding High.

Galion at Mansfield

Galion with their 6 to 0 victory over Harding here last Saturday are invading the Red and White camp today at Mansfield. They will never win at Mansfield with only one touchdown this is of course, unless they have bettered their team play 50 per cent since they played here one week ago.

BIG KERSH IS INJURED

Galion, Oct. 9—The Orangemen may have to do without the services of "Big" Kersh, stellar half, who was injured in the Harding game, and with orders from the local mentor, has not appeared in a suit this week, allowing his ankle additional time to heal. McClure, left guard, still remains on the injured list.

Last year practically the same team battled to a scoreless tie on the local field, and it is safe to say that a close, hard-fought game can be expected.

MANSFIEL RECEIVES GALION WARMLY

Mansfield, Oct. 9—The rugged Red and White tackles, Angle and Wolfe, are sure to be prominent factors in clearing paths for the onslaughts of Captain McMullen, Freehaver and Perkins in today's game with Galion. Angle is a veteran of last year and is a tower of strength on the right side of the line where his robust charging is seen in nearly every play.

His wide experience has had a good psychological effect on the team which opened the season almost green, Coach Murphy believes.

The lightest man on the line is De Giacomo, weighing 135, but his diminutiveness means nothing in this day and age of the game.

To Start Regulars

Murphy indicated today that he would stick to the line-up he has started against previous opponents this fall.

A floating debt isn't necessarily a light one.

Saturday, and when my ... her face she said it ... and then she turned onto ... who eats next to her ... looked all right, and ... look all right to him. ... what was out of fix ... said the eyes was not ... mouth was too big and ... pointed wrong, and the ... too sharp like a battle-... "You have had lots of ... you suppose it will ... it used to?" Then my ... "It looks now like it ... never did like it." Then ... arm like he thought my ... to take a joke at him. ... everyone was looking at ... egg between two pan- ... it into my pocket and ... and me and Jubilee and ... out for the pasture so ... get blamed for some-

... swim in the creek which ... that it took us lots ... in than it did to come ... we went back to our ... flips in the hay, and when ... barn there was my grand-father, and he had cleaned the barn all out and had the doors and the hole into the alley open, and he was setting on the floor of the empty stall on a bunch of hay smoking his pipe, and when I axted him how come he said that my ant was wound up for the day and was certainly one hell-raisin' lady. "By golly," he said, "she talks to me like she was married to me. The poet was wrong thta writ

"Oh, woman, in our hour of ease
Uncertain, coy, and hard to please.
But seen too oft, familiar with her face
We first endure, then pity, then embrace!"

By gum I've seen her too oft, but I ain't even begun to endure her yet." We seen he had the blues, so we went out to Nordrum's appla orchard and was going to get some sour apples and make some cider in a box we had fixed up with a couple of bricks and a fence rail, but Mr. Nordrum happened to be in his orchard a short time after we got there, and he got so close to us that we pulled out our shirts and dropped all of our apples, and even then he chaseted us quite a ways. We played ball the rest of the day.

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

Mr. Bushytail, the squirrel gentle- ... with his wife one evening ... Mr. and Mrs. Uncle Wiggily in ... stump bungalow. While ... rabbit gentleman took the ... down cellar to show him the ... carrots, cabbages and turnips ... away for winter.

"We are very lucky, Uncle Wiggily," ... Mr. Bushytail.

"Because you will not starve this ... You will have plenty to eat ... a warm place to stay. As for me, ... I shall be warm enough, but I fear ... go hungry, and so will my wife, ... Johnnie and Billie, my two little ... boys."

"Nonsense!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Haven't you a lot of chestnuts stored away ready to eat when cold weather comes?"

"No," answered the squirrel, "I ... This has been a very unlucky year. Something is the matter with the chestnut trees. Very few of them had any nuts on, and even those I cannot seem to find. I have a quart of hickory nuts put away, and some beechnuts and quite some acorns. But chestnuts are the kind we squirrels like best, and I don't know what we are going to do without a cellar full of them."

"It is too bad," admitted Mr. Longears. "But perhaps some lucky wind will blow the chestnuts to you, or you to the chestnuts."

"That would be too good to be true!" replied Mr. Bushytail. "But think no more about it, and don't let my wife know I told you. She worries enough as it is."

The squirrel lady and gentleman went home after their evening call, but though Uncle Wiggily tried to forget what Mr. Bushytail had told him about having no chestnuts, the rabbit could not get it out of his mind.

Early next morning he started out through the woods to look for an adventure.

"At the same time," said Uncle Wiggily, "I may find a place where some chestnut trees grow, and Mr. Bushytail can gather all he wants to eat so he will worry no more."

On hopped the bunny gentleman and pretty soon he heard a rustling in the bushes. At first he thought it might be one of the bad chaps, but it wasn't. It was Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrel boys scrabbling over dried leaves.

"Have you seen any chestnuts or chestnut trees, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Johnnie.

"We are looking for some nuts to ... to keep us from starving when ... comes," chattered Billie, and the ... know their father must have told ... to search around.

"I am sorry" said Mr. Longears, "but I have seen no chestnuts." So he hopped ... one way and Johnnie and Billie hop- ... the other way, and pretty soon Uncle Wiggily heard another rustling in the bushes. "That must be a bad chap!" thought the bunny. But it wasn't. It was the wind stirring the dried leaves.

And, all of a sudden, the wind blew so hard it blew off the rabbit's tall silk hat, sending it rolling along the woodland path.

"Here, Hat! Come Back!" cried Uncle Wiggily. But the wind only blew the hat harder, sending it rolling over and over. Uncle Wiggily ran after it, for he did not want to lose his hat. But the wind was very playful, and led the bunny a merry chase.

All of a sudden the hat was blown by the wind against a big tree, and the bunny cried:

"Now I have you!" He sprang forward to catch the hat before the wind could blow it on again, and, all of a sudden it seemed as if a lot of hail stones were rattling down on the bunny' bare head. But when he looked where the things were falling, he saw a number of half-round little brown things, some of whih the wind had shaken down out of the tree into his hat.

"Why, they're chestnuts!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "It's a big chestnut tree. The only one in these woods, I guess. It was a lucky wind that blew off my hat and rolled it here, and then shook down the nuts from their prickly burrs which Jack Frost burst open." And, surely enough there were lots of chestnuts. And bunny told the squirrels about them and they gathered a cellar full, so they had plenty to eat when winter came.

And if the chocolate cake will give the butterfly a loaf of bread to slide with down the iron board, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's pumpkin party.

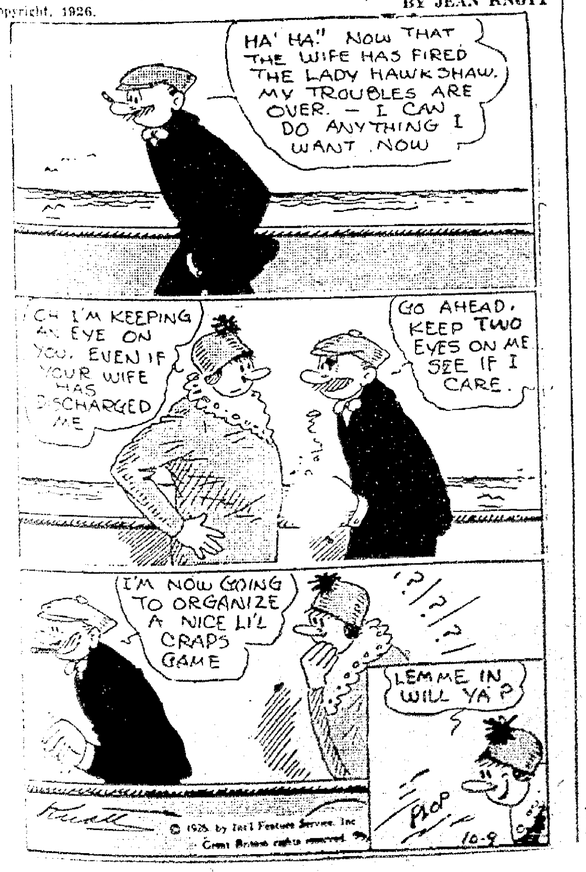

Fish may be brain food, but, of course, it is first necessary to have the brain to feed.

Sympathy, like ambition, has to be translated into action to be worth anything.

STOCK PRICES DROP IN SHORT SESSION TODAY

Trading Confined to Few Speculative Leaders; Cotton Situation Unsettled

New York, Oct. 9—Stock prices declined to a slightly lower range of values in an irregular and featureless short session of the stock market today.

Trading was confined to a few of the speculative leaders, the absence of outside interest being due in part to the proximity of the holiday on Tuesday and the continued unsettlement of the American cotton situation. Though government agencies and the bankers of the nation have pledged their full cooperation in preventing a dumping of cotton on the market at ruinous prices, there was considerable selling pressure on cotton futures, particularly from the southern points, and cotton was therefore unable to rally.

The downward movement of stock prices gained momentum in the second hour, the widest declines being in the high-priced industrial and specialty stocks. Coco Cola was under pressure and declined to 148 for a six point loss. Steel common and General Motors, recognized leaders in the last two important bull movements, were off more than two points.

The reactionary trend in U. S. Steel was due to market disappointment over Judge Gary's failure to suggest any [illegible] dividend for the stockholders within a reasonable period.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Specials prevailed in Marion meat markets today.

Prime beef roasts in one market were selling at 15 cents a pound. Swiss steak sold at 24 cents while "minute" steaks retailed at 10 cents a pound.

Lard, open kettle rendered, was selling at the special price of 15 1-2 cents a pound today in several local meat markets. The regular price is 17 cents. Creamery butter retailed at 45 cents, the usual price.

Oysters, with demand ever increasing, continued to sell at 65 cents a quart, no special price being offered for the week-end.

Eggs ranged from 40 to 45 cents in retail price today a drop of two cents under yesterday's price. The prices were included in specials for Saturday and farm price for eggs remained at 38 cents.

A contest to reduce the price of sweet potatoes seems to be under way among Marion dealers. The cheapest recorded is six pounds for 19 cents.

Peaches Drop

Peaches this week have steadily dropped from $2.00 to $1.00 a bushel. Few dealers today were asking more than $1.60 for the fruit while the lowest price prevailing on good peaches was $1.35. Elbertas, Lemon Frees and fancy Smock peaches are favorites.

A great display of prune plums, Concord and Tokay grapes, pears, oranges, grapefruit, melons, bananas, apples and other fruits was seen on local counters.

A few special prices were offered on fruits but the majority of local dealers retained the usual quotation.

Markets were alive with fresh vegetables from local gardens and farms and sales recorded this morning gave proof that Marion housewives appreciate real homegrown varieties in all vegetables.

Few special prices were offered in this field by local vegetable dealers.

Although all Marion fruit and vegetable dealers were well supplied early today, the regular Saturday rush reduced the plentiful store before noon.

YALE CRIES FOR ANOTHER LITTLE "DUCKY" POND

Just Anyone To Score on Harvard, That's All

"We want another 'Ducky Pond,'" is the cry at Yale these days as Tad Jones whips the Bulldogs into shape for the grid season.

The reason for the cry is the fact, recalled at the mentioning by most Yale—and Harvard followers—that the New Haven team has scored only one at Cambridge since 1907—the one that Pond scored three years ago. The ducky one achieved the feat by the simple process of running sixty yards with the Harvard team trailing in Australian pursuit race fashion behind him.

In 1907 Yale had its last day at Cambridge. The one and only Ted Coy, quintessence of football grit and daring, plowed through the Harvard eleven for two touchdowns.

Yale's record on its own field is much more satisfactory to Yale fans. Four times have the Bulldogs crossed Harvard's line at New Haven since 1907. But for the glorious victory of 1924 this record would not stand out so pleasingly. In a mess of wind, rain, mud and slippery sod the Yale team scored three touchdowns.

Buckeye Athletic Association Recognized; Asked To Discontinue Name

Columbus, Oct 9—Marietta College and the University of Dayton today were members of the Ohio Athletic Conference by action of the conference in meeting here last night.

Preliminary steps toward recognizing the organization of Denison, Cincinnati, Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio, Wittenberg and Miami Universities into a separate group within the conference, to classify their own athletic standings, were taken when the conference requested the six schools to refrain from using the name Buckeye Athletic Association.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

New York—Franz Diener, of Germany, won decision from Knute Hansen, of Denmark, 10 rounds. Jimmy Delaney, of St. Paul, won on technical knockout from Alec Rely, of South America, in the eighth round. Jack DeMave of Hoboken won decision from young Bob Fitzsimmons of Newark, 10 rounds. Henry Lamar of Washington, D. C., knocked out Tom Wickham, of Bay Ridge, N. Y., in third round. Monte Munn, of Nebraska, knocked out Archie Skinner, of Boston in the first round.

San Francisco—Billy Alger, of the Pacific coast, drew with Paul Demske of Australia 10 rounds; Billy Springfield, of San Francisco, won decision over Tokichi Kawala, of Japan, six rounds.

Dayton—Tut Jackson Washington C. H. won a close decision over Big Jim Stone, eight rounds; Bobby McGowan and Danny Huff drew six rounds.

Scranton, Pa.—Johnny Cecoll, Scranton, and Phil McGraw, Detroit, 10 rounds to a draw; Mickey Chapin, Scranton, won decision over Sid Barbarian, Detroit, eight rounds.

Contentious people will even argue with you about the weather.

ATHLETICS MAY PLAY AT LIMA

World Series Stars Scheduled To Play, Says Promoter

Marion's baseball fans [illegible] Athletic may have an opportunity to see Babe Ruth, Bill South, [illegible] Frank Lilhoole, Mickey Heath and probably a few more big league stars, according to announcement in The Lima Star by Manager Bernie Halloran of the Lima Independents which team is planning to hold a game at home Oct 15.

Marion Athletics have challenged Lima's Independents to a game for the semi pro championship of Ohio, but to date they have not accepted, according to Manager Francis Bacon of the local club.

Lima wants to play Marion Delphos or Celina, according to The Lima Star, which states further:

Just what club Lima will battle with the "big gun" in its lineup has not been decided. The probable opponent probably will depend upon the drawing power.

The addition of Ruth to the Independents' roster will not interfere in any way with the playing of other league stars already signed up for post season games here. They will play, too, Manager Halloran announces.

that eventually proved to be the winners. Some fans were unkind enough to say that when he made a hit of this kind that his eyes were closed, but he maintains that if he can win his own game with his eyes closed that he is willing to wear blinders.

Rowan, the streak of light from Bucyrus, was brought here late in the season. He has played 12 games in left field and one at second base. He is not as fast on the bases as Ty Cobb was when he was at his best, but the difference does not give the Georgia peach an edge, at that. He looks like Eddie Collins in uniform, but to the opposition he looks like Mercury. He should have had twice as many sacrifice hits as he did have during the season but he is a contrary cuss and when he drops a bunt he has a mean habit (to the other team) of beating it out.

Sailor Sharrock Is Recruit

The final "regular" we are going to talk about is Jay "Sailor" Sharrock. He spent all season with the House of David team at Benton Harbor, Mich. With the bearded team he batted .370 for the season. In last Sunday's game he cheated the Marion fans out of a real treat. We saw him last Saturday with a bunch of whiskers that would have made J. Ham Lewis, the Illinois politician turn green with envy. They were of about the same pink hue that sent Lewis to the United States senate. But when we showed up at the park last Sunday, we asked Manager Bacon, "who's the husky batting out there?" When he told us it was Sharrock we were badly disappointed. We thought that Jimmy Ruzo would offer a free shave if Sharrock batted in the winning run. We sure would like to see him work on a crop like "Sailor" had when he came back here from Benton Harbor.

Reese has pitched but one game for Marion, and his batting average for that one game, and necessarily for the season, is nil, but he held the Akron Swinehart's, who were flushed with a 7 to 10 victory over our boys, to three hits and let his teammates do the hitting while he did the pitching. While his batting average is .000, his pitching average is 1.000.

An Electric Refrigerator for the White House

The White House kitchen is being equipped with an electric refrigeration system. The new equipment, Major U. S. Grant, 3rd, Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds, said, on August 17th, has been installed in the ice box which has been in the White House since 1921.

"You see more and more people taking to electrical refrigeration every day."

Chevrolet Coach

Competition Not Open to Columbus Residents

For the twp weeks beginning Oct. 7 and ending Wednesday, Oct. 20, at 9 p. m., The Ohio State Journal will offer a brand new Chevrolet Coach, fully equipped with the famous Mohawk Tires, representing a value of over $700 delivered in Columbus, for the largest amount of cash turned in on new subscriptions from the territory in The Journal's great prize campaign by any candidate living outside of the city of Columbus and its immediate suburbs.

Subscriptions for this offer may be obtained anywhere, both in and out of the city, but the winning candidate must live outside of the city districts.

In offering this special prize for special effort, The Journal is really offering a campaign within the campaign, for a candidate can start new and win this prize, since only the subscriptions turned in with cash accompanying between Oct. 7 and Oct. 20, inclusive, will be counted. Every vote given for these subscriptions, however, will count in the race for the 61 prizes offered.

Ohio State Journal's

Great $50,000 Prize Campaign

extends over 21 counties. It offers eleven grand prizes, consisting of a $15,000 home in Upper Arlington, completely furnished, and ten fine automobiles, including a Cadillac, Packard, Studebaker, Hupmobile, Nash, Hudson, Oldsmobile, Chrysler, Dodge and Essex, all closed cars. In addition, there are nine districts with five prizes in each district, consisting of an Overland Whippet Sedan, a Chevrolet Coach, $200 in gold, $150 in gold and $50 in gold for each district.

No such remarkable opportunity to win richly valuable prizes was ever before offered in Central Ohio. Prizes are given for subscriptions to the Ohio State Journal, by mail or carrier, and will be awarded Nov. 20. Any man or woman in the territory may enter and compete for these prizes, which will be won by spare time effort in securing subscriptions paid in advance, both new and old.

Large parts of the outside territory remain uncovered. Any active man or woman who enters this campaign will be paid 10% of the new subscription money collected, so no one can lose.

Take advantage of this golden opportunity. Enter the campaign and win the rich prizes offered. YOU can do it if you want to enough. Send in the nomination blank today, and go after this Chevrolet. Your friends will help you, and maybe you will win one of the grand prizes as well. They are easy to win, and candidates are still few.
